Rat Week in England.
The Dust of Jengis.
Elastic Henry Ford.
When They Steal Enough.
—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1927, by Star Co.

THIS IS "Rat Week" in Great Britain, an army of killers, men, ferrets and dogs, are attacking rats throughout the British Islands. Last year in British "Rat Week" 8,000,000 rats were killed. But scientists say there are 40,000,000 rats in Britain, so killing 8,000,000 won't help much; 40,000,000 rats can easily replace 8,000,000 dead in a year, or even in a month.

In Britain rats destroy $350,000,000 of property annually. Here they destroy more than twice as much.

Our rats eat from millions of uncovered garbage cans, and how many millions there are of them ready at a moment's notice to carry bubonic plague or other disease-bearing fleas heaven only knows. Cultured American cats probably say to themselves, "Oh, to be in England when 'Rat Week' is there."

Professor Kosloff, Russian archaeologist, thinks he has discovered the tomb of Jengis Khan, greatest of Asiatic conquerors, who died exactly 700 years ago after conquering the world from China to Poland and killing 5,000,000 human beings. The dust that is left of him is said to lie peacefully beside his "second imperial concubine" in the Gobi Desert.

That fierce Asiatic, who drove back the power of Islam and of Christianity, directed great battles while he played at chess with his crippled son. Now in peace he lies, guarded by seven lamas, each of these priests, every seventh hour, striking seven times a great jade bell hanging over the conqueror's dust.

When they carried Jengis Khan back to the valleys of the great desert where he was born, his mourning warriors killed every human being met on the road, that his enemies might not get word of his death.

...ould interest you to read Jengis' biography, the only one written in English, by Harold Lamb, capable student of Asiatic history.

Getting ready to produce his new car, including the cost of shutting down, is said to have cost Henry Ford $240,000,000. He spent $50,000,000 for "retooling" his factories, and enlarging the factories. What amazes finance is that Ford has been able to do this without borrowing a dollar. He has carried from $350,000,000 to $400,000,000 cash in banks.

Henry Ford tells friends that the great expenditure for new tools was not made merely to get ready for the new car. An entire recasting of his manufacturing equipment will, as he puts it, "make me elastic," able to produce anything he wants, without reorganizing as he has just done.

ACCUSED JUROR PUT ON GRILL AFTER OIL PLOT MISTRIAL IS ORDERED

Washington, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Charges of jury irregularities brought the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy trial to an abrupt end today and sent one of the trial jurors post haste before a Grand Jury for questioning.

Within an hour after Justice Siddons had declared a mistrial, Edward J. Kidwell, the juror alleged by the government to have predicted that he soon would be owner of "a car as long as a block," was taken into the Grand Jury room under warning that anything he might say might be used against him.

WOMEN IN REVERE SURF AS MERCURY PASSES 75

With five women in swimming, and a crowd of 2,000 on the sand, Revere Beach presented a mid-Summer scene today, while the mercury there and elsewhere throughout Greater Boston was soaring to a new November record.

The Revere swimmers were Mrs. Walter Fleming, No. 169 Byron street, East Boston; Mrs. Frances Bartlett, No. 382 Saratoga street, East Boston; Mrs. Elsen Griffin, International highway, Revere; Miss Betty Comstock, Oak Island, Revere; Miss Peggy Wilson, No. 312 International highway.

Hot dog vendors were doing a rousing business, and mothers with babies in carriages were enjoying balmy sea-breezes, as Police Lieutenant Thomas Flowers squinted at the thermometers and found the temperature 72 ashore and 64 in the water. In Boston, at the weather bureau, the mercury was even higher.

The official temperature reached 74, yesterday's record, at noon and was 75 at 2 p. m., equalling at that figure the bureau's record date of November 2, 1878.

The hottest November days on record were the 12th in 1909 and the

BARNARD IS CHOSEN TO SUCCEED BAN JOHNSON

Chicago, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—E. S. Barnard, president of the Cleveland Indians, today was unanimously chosen president of the American Baseball League, succeeding Ban Johnson, resigned.

Barnard's term of office is for three years. His salary was not revealed. It was reported that his contract called for $40,000 a year, the same amount received by Johnson. Barnard also was elected treasurer of the league, an office formerly held by Johnson.

William Harridge, for 15 years secretary to Johnson, was elected secretary of the league, a newly created position. Harridge's term is also for three years.

The club owners figured that no man in baseball appeared to be better qualified to take over the

MOTHER, BABY BROTHER AND SISTER OF "DOLLY"

Mrs. George Adams of No. 1113 Harrison avenue, Roxbury, mother of Dorothy, 5, whose bruised body was found in the gutter in Clapp street, shown with Leo Adams, 18 months old, and Helen, three years. Mrs. Adams learned of her daughter's death while caring for a sick friend. A neighbor told her of the label found in a dead girl's coat. "Why, that is the coat of my little Dolly!" she cried and collapsed. Inset shows Dorothy.

TALKED WITH MAN IN CLOSED CAR ON FATAL HALLOWEEN NIGHT

Police learned today that a man was seen apparently enticing five-year-old "Dolly" Adams into a closed automobile in Washington street, Roxbury, near the Dudley street terminal, on the night the little queen of Harrison avenue was killed and her body left in a gutter in Clapp street, Dorchester.

This story Police Superintendent Michael H. Crowley heard from the lips of Winifred Gallagher, a bright, fourteen-year-old schoolgirl, who told it first to her mother and then to the police department head.

The theory that the little girl was attacked by a fiend in an automobile before being thrown out to die, far from her home, assumed major importance with the telling of this story.

A second theory is that "Dolly" was killed accidentally by an automobile that Moris Adelman, filling station owner, saw near her home on Halloween, the driver starting to take her home, then changing his mind and fleeing into Dorchester with the dying child.

Woman in Car

A woman was riding with this driver and, according to Adelman, both she and her male companion seemed to act suspiciously. Armed with descriptions, police throughout the city are hunting for man, woman and automobile.

Winifred Gallagher's story, however, checks up with that of Mrs. Josephine Murphy of Clapp street who saw a big shiny, closed car return to the spot where the body was found, after the body had been removed.

The car seen by both Mrs. Murphy and Winifred Gallagher were described by them as "big, black, shiny and closed."

Winifred said she saw the incident at 7:30 in the evening. Police then re-questioned a child who told of seeing Dorothy Adams two hours later near her home, and this child changed her story, saying it was at 5:30.

Leary Keeps Body

Following this, a woman, who also said Dolly was near her home at 9:30, explained that she was only quoting what the other child, Ada McKavan, had reported.

Dr. Timothy Leary, medical examiner, notified Dolly's mother that he would not be through with the body until 6 o'clock this evening. Thus far he has reported only tentatively—"cause of death unknown."

"I was going to the five-and-ten to get a mask for a Halloween party when I saw little Dolly standing on Washington street, watching the crowds go by," said Winifred, who is a pupil at the Dearborn School.

"We both said hello. She seemed to be enjoying all the people. She said, 'Where are you going?' I told her and she said she was going to the five-and-ten, too, but I was in a hurry and went on ahead.

"When I came back that way I saw her standing by the big black

VAN LOONS IN FREAK MARRIAGE CONTRACT

New York, Nov. 2.—Hendrick Willem Van Loon, philosopher, historian and essayist, and Frances Goodrich, noted actress, just married, are honeymooning under the strangest conditions ever attempted by a couple making the matrimonial adventure, it is believed.

They call it an ultra modern experiment. The marriage was intended to be a secret, the ceremony having been performed by a Rabbi in Miss Goodrich's home town in New Jersey.

Here are some of the conditions of the novel marriage:

Van Loon telephones his wife once a week and if she has no engagement they will go honeymooning.

Neither has taken on the slightest obligation toward the other.

Van Loon has no claim upon the time, society or affections of Mrs. Van Loon. Neither has she any on Mr. Van Loon. He can go out when he pleases and stay up as late as

MRS. ANDREWS NAMED ON GOVERNOR'S COUNCIL

Surprising even those nearest the head of the line in the Republican vanguard, Governor Fuller today appointed Mrs. Esther M. Andrews of Brookline as a member of the Governor's Council.

She is the first woman ever to sit in the Council, and she fills the vacancy caused by the death of Councillor Charles Sumner Smith a few weeks ago.

Last year, Mrs. Andrews, who is former president of the Boston Section, Council of Jewish Women, opposed Smith for the office and was runner-up when the election returns were all in.

Mrs. Andrews will represent District No. 3, which takes in the Third Suffolk, part of Norfolk, and the

SCITUATE YOUTH DIES OF HALLOWEEN WOUND

A wild battle at the peak of a Halloween celebration in the Beachwood section of Scituate came to light today when Ellery Litchfield, son in a prominent Scituate family, died as the result of injuries alleged to have been sustained in the free-for-all fight.

Only yesterday young Litchfield, in Abington Court, paid a fine of $110 after being found guilty of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

A coroner's inquest will be held as a result of his death, which shocked the entire Beachwood section today.

According to the story being investigated by the police—who are in possession of a number of names of alleged companions—young Litchfield was badly beaten.

After his return home from court yesterday he became ill and Dr. Ed-

MARILYN MILLER GETS HER DIVORCE IN FRANCE

Paris, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—The Versailles Tribunal has granted Marilyn Miller, stage and screen actress, a divorce from Jack Pickford.

Marilyn Miller went to Paris early this Summer with the announced intention of getting a divorce. Her reported statements stirred French legal circles where it was felt that the complaisance of the French courts as to divorces was being stretched to the limit and resulted in expressions of belief in some quarters that Jack and Marilyn would never get their wedding knot untied in Paris.

The divorce action was not filed immediately after Miss Miller's arrival in Paris and it was understood that the suit had been deferred when it had become public that the Paris courts took exception to reported remarks of Miss Miller that divorces were easy to get in Paris.

On Oct. 13 it was learned that she had brought suit at the Versailles tribunal, the suit being filed quietly in July. Miss Miller made the customary allegations, it was said in legal circles, alleging incompatability of temperament and the impossibility of the couple living together.

"QUEEN OF THE AVENUE" IS NO MORE

"Dolly Adams, 5, known and loved as the "queen of Harrison avenue," who died even as the goblins held high Halloween revel in Greater Boston. Police are combing the city for the fiendish autoist who caused her death.

SAW DOLLY WITH MAN

Winifred Gallagher passed Dolly Adams near the Dudley street terminal the night she was killed, and says she was talking with an autoist in a big, black, shiny car.

DID FIEND LURE HER?

Police hold two theories—one of which is that she was lured into an auto, attacked, then hurled out to die.

HINT SPEEDER HIT HER?

The other police theory is that she was struck by a hit and run auto and her broken little body carried away from her home.

car. It was a closed car. The door was open and a man was reaching out toward Dolly.

"He was thirty or thirty-five years old and nicely dressed. He had on a brown suit and a brown soft hat. He was wearing a bow tie, too, I noticed that. He was dark.

Dolly Was Laughing

"Dolly was laughing as I went by and was saying something to the man. I remember it was just about 7:30 because I hurried home, then went over to my cousin's, Eleanor Sweeney, and we went to the party together and got there by about 8 o'clock, the time it started.

"Dolly was a lot younger than me, but I knew her well because she used to come over to our house a lot."

The little victim of the Halloween tragedy will be buried on Friday at Mt. Benedict Cemetery, West Roxbury. City Councillor John F. Dowd arranged for the funeral with Undertaker William Mahoney of Dudley street, because of the destitute condition of the Adams family.

Police Hunt Man

Police assigned to run down the clews given by Adelman, about a touring car containing a man and woman acting suspiciously in the vicinity of his filling-station and the Adams home in Harrison avenue, learned that the woman sitting beside the driver kept looking back into the rear of the car—as if, perhaps, an injured child lay there.

They pictured a stealthy ride from the Harrison avenue location to Clapp street, where the two, with shaken nerves, disposed of the body.

It was half an hour before the body was found in the gutter in Clapp street by Patrolman James Bray that Adelman and another man saw the suspected automobile at Harrison avenue and Eustis street.

"About 9.30 or 9.40, a touring car came along Eustis street and stopped," said Morris Adelman, who conducts a gasoline filling station at the corner of Eustis street and Harrison avenue.

Describes Driver

"In another moment it came into the station, but as I left my office to go out to it, the driver started up again and drove out on to Harrison avenue, where he stopped beside a group of children at play in front of the Adams house. Finally it moved off along Harrison avenue, going west toward Dudley street.

"The driver was a man about 28 to 30 years old, dressed in a dark, V-necked sweater over a white shirt. He wore no hat.

I did not get any too good a look at his face, yet I believe I can recognize him.

"His companion was a young woman, who kept her face turned from me. She seemed to be gazing into the back of the car. Harry Barnes, my assistant, also saw the car in question."

Adelman and his companion believe the mysterious car struck the child a short distance from her home and that the driver picked her up, intending to take her home. It is believed the child was able to whisper her address before lapsing into unconsciousness and death.

Why he changed his mind is a matter of conjecture. The police belief that the group of children caused him to change his plan.

Also the possibility is hinted that his woman companion may not have wished to have it known that she was riding with him on Halloween and dreaded her name being mixed up in the case.

William Eagan, who served the government in the Intelligence branch during the war, first heard Adelman's story and, realizing its importance, had him repeat it to the police.

Last Dress for Dolly

A tiny dress, in which "Dolly" will be buried, was purchased today by her grief-stricken mother.

"It is the saddest errand I ever did," she said, unable to stop the flow of tears. "Here is Dolly's last dress, the best she ever had, I guess, for it cost $10. How she would like it if she were alive.

"My father gave me $25 with which to buy some necessary things and if it wasn't for him and Councillor Dowd, who has arranged for the funeral, I wouldn't know what to do.

WOMAN NAMED TO COUNCIL

First, Second and Fifth Middlesex Senatorial Districts.

For twenty-five years, and perhaps a bit more, Mrs. Andrews has been in public life, first coming into prominence as a member of the Massachusetts prison board and later as a trustee of the Boston Psychopathic Hospital, which post she still holds. President Coolidge, when he was Governor, made her appointment.

She is also vice-president of the council of women for the protection of women and children in industry and is a member of a similar committee in the women's council of the Republican Club.

Because of a long illness of her husband, Julius Andrews, she has taken an active part in directing the business of the J. Andrews Co., a shoe store in Washington street, and employes there today said that she is present two and three hours each day.

Mourn 'Queen Dolly' in a Dynasty of Tears

By WIN BROOKS

EDDIE went for the milk today.

That was the Queen's job. Every morning, before 8, Dolly Adams, Queen of Roxbury's Harrison avenue, "went for the milk."

Down the four steps in front of the door chalk-marked "1113." Half running, half skipping the half-block to "Mister Lazor's."

On the corner of Eustis street and Harrison avenue, "Mister Mazor" conducts a store where one may "get the milk," or the bread, or the paper. That was her destination. She would tip-toe up to the entrance, peek around the corner. Harry Mazor himself tells it best:

"'Meesta Mazor!' she would shout. "'What is it you want?' I would ask way down in my voice like that. "'I've come for the milk,' she'd say. I'd get it and take the money.

Cookies and Candy

"'Any change, Meesta Mazor?' Sometimes there'd be a cookie or a stick of candy. Seldom was there change.

"She didn't come for the milk today."

Today, nor any other day till the end of time itself when the errands that are at once the hare and promise of a child's existence are done.

"He come for the milk today," says Mazor. He puts his hand on Eddie's shoulder. Eddie is brother of the Queen whose reign has ended. The tousled red thatch that crowns his seven years is lowered while he whispers to his brother, Roy. Roy, four, has something on his mind.

The dawn, which may be a false promise, but is, at least, a new day, found the three bare windows at 1113 Harrison avenue staring blankly through a mask of yellow shades.

Behind those shades a man and a woman, with eyes red-rimmed from sleeplessness and sorrow, prepared for anything a new day might bring, prayed that before another night Queen Dollie would come home. Home from the morgue.

George Adams, who till Halloween, was the father of a queen, comes to the door, collarless, unshaven. Through a long night he has been alone with his thoughts. Listen to him now:

Was "Boss for the Day"

"If I could get my hands on the fellow who killed Dolly before the cops grab him, I think I would kill him. God help me, but I would."

He breathes deeply, the fingers of his hands clench, unclench.

"If he had killed her and had brought her home or taken her to a hospital, I could forgive him. But he left her in the gutter. My girl in the gutter like a dog!"

Morris Adelman, the filling station man, paused the crank at the fourth gallon.

"In the morning after she'd been for the milk she used to run over here. 'You heard the bell yet, Mr Adelman?' she'd ask. I can hear the bell of the school from here. If I told her it had rung she'd be off with a dash. If it hadn't sounded she sit awhile and talk."

For the Queen, who had just started to school, the last bell has rung. The last save one, perhaps. For beneath the great gold cross of St. Philip's, which was Dolly's church, there is a bell to toll the stately journey of the Queen to her last resting place in Mount Benedict Cemetery.

DOWD RELIEVES STRICKEN HOME

The pitiful little body that once held the joy and laughter of "Dolly" Adams will go into a grave in Mt. Benedict Cemetery, West Roxbury, and not into a pauper's grave, although the Adams family is penniless and in want.

Through the solicitude of City Councillor John F. Dowd, who visited the Adams home when he learned the circumstances of the family, Undertaker William J. Mahoney of No. 576 Dudley street, Roxbury, has been secured to supervise the sad rites when "Dolly's" playmates see her for the last time—but not as they saw her in play hours.

The city councilor declared today he was astonished at the distress of the family and the lack even of food in the house. The light had been turned off several days ago, he said, for non-payment of the lighting bill and the father and the children at home with him were compelled to sit, with their sorrow, in darkness.

Councillor Dowd succeeded in having the light turned on again, he furnished food and a few comforts for the children, then he made arrangements for the little grave in Mt. Benedict and secured the undertaker.

Councilor Dowd also wrote to Fire Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman asking him to consider reinstating George Adams, father of the dead child, to the fire department. He pointed out that Adams was forced to resign because of owing bills he could not pay, not for a criminal offense.

MERCURY AT 78 ON COMMON

7th in 1924, when the mercury reached 76 on both occasions.

It will be cloudy and cooler tonight, with possibly showers, and tomorrow will be fair and colder.

At noon today, the thermometer reading at Boston Common kiosk was 78. That, if you don't happen to feel warm yourself, was exactly 39 degrees higher than it stood at noon of November 2 last year.

Crowds swarmed the Common, occupying all the benches and with the grass holding the overflow. The North End enjoyed a few picnics. Frog Pond, which has been empty, was being filled again with water.

"For swimming or skating?" somebody asked a park department worker there.

"Skating?" asks he. "Skating? There's squirrels barking in them trees, mister."

HUNT WINTER PROPHET.

Through the crowds which wandered perspiring and aimless marched a group of men whose stern visages bespoke some grim purpose. Approaching these, a reporter asked a question:

"What you looking for?"

Their leader answered, barely pausing, "We're after the old timer who predicted the early Winter. We started our heaters." They marched on again.

Boston Common still is the favorite rendezvous of the weary of foot—and it's going to be popular all Winter if this Summer lingers on. There's really no excuse for millionaires and "busted" men going to Florida any more—except to cool off!

CUTTER URGES 'SALESMEN' TO BOOST TRADE

The spirit of New England, renewed and revivified, has taken up the stride again and is marching steadily onward, placing its goods in all the markets of the nation and in the markets of all the world, three speakers declared today at the Chamber of Commerce assembly luncheon.

They were Victor M. Cutter, president of the United Fruit Co.; Francis H. Sisson, vice-president of the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, and Col. Frank Knox, publisher of the Hearst newspapers in Boston.

Col. Knox presided.

The Chamber noon meeting, a Trade and Industry luncheon, was a feature of Progress Week and the hundreds in attendance were told that New England has undergone a transformation and has set sail for the commercial destination of which its business founders only dreamed.

By President Cutter of the United Fruit Co., it was asserted that the one great liability in New England is the lack of salesmen.

"The goal in art," he said, "is a perfect product, but the ultimate goal in industry is the sale of this perfect product.

"Look at New England assets. We have a great and increasing population living in an energy-producing climate.

"The total capital held in New England and the resources of its present industrial plants are enormous.

"We have a more abundant and permanent supply of highly skilled labor than any other section of this country. We hav. adequate railway, port and terminal service.

RE-OPENS FIGHT BY ACCUSING LAWYER

Declaring she had been tricked, Mrs. Rose Simolian, Providence stenographer, today sought in Middlesex Probate Court to have a divorce obtained by her husband five months ago set aside.

She testified before Judge Arthur E. Beane that a lawyer tricked her into not contesting her husband's suit after she had told the lawyer: "I want to contest it; I would rather live with him that have him get a divorce."

Shown a paper in which, ostensibly, she settled an alienation suit against her husband's brother for $500 and stated that she would not fight the divorce action, she declared she had never signed it.

"It's a fraud," she declared. "I signed simply a statement settling the alienation suit. My lawyer was to have got $2,000 but he settled for only $500, of which I was given $250. I never intended to let my husband get the divorce and never signed a paper with that clause in it."

The divorce obtained by Charles P. Simolian of Somerville was a decree nisi, becoming effective next month, six months after the time it was granted. He was given custody of two children.

A two-alarm fire at the plant of the Tucker Concrete Form Company in the rear of No. 66 Washington street, East Somerville, today caused a scare for the occupants of a score or more of tenement houses nearby and damage estimated at $10,000.

The blaze was confined to two one-story wooden buildings, and the cause is undetermined. When discovered the entire lower floor of the structure was ablaze.

The department confined the blaze to the shed after a battle.

YOUNG ARCHER NAMES RIVAL

Charging that his wife was guilty of misconduct on Cape Cod last July, August and September, Frank M. Archer, Jr., filed suit for divorce today in Norfolk Probate Court at Dedham, against Mrs. Madeline J. Archer.

In an amendment to his suit, Archer, who is 24, declared the "other man" is Tuffie Sylvester Bostwick of Dorchester.

Archer asks the custody of the two children, Jessie J. Archer, 4, and Elizabeth M., nearly 3.

The bill cites that Mrs. Archer, now of Somerville, was married to young Archer, who lives in Brookline, in New York.

Six weeks ago, in Barnstable district court, Mrs. Archer and Bostwick were given suspended sentences of three months each on a serious charge.

Testimony was that the couple were trapped during a raid on a Hyannis rooming house by a detective, two State troopers and young Archer.

Mrs. Archer and Bostwick appealed the sentences, even though they had been suspended, and each gave $300 bail.

SUBS' LIGHTS TO MEET WITH "RULES OF ROAD"

Washington, No. 2 (A.P.).—Rearrangement of submarines' running lights to conform more nearly with the "rules of the road" has been ordered by the Navy Department and the underseas craft are being modernized in that respect. While the rearrangement has been going on for some time and apparently was stimulated by the accident in which the S61 was sunk by the City of Rome, the department has long been considering to reduce the present hazards.

BABY TRAVELS 4,000 MILES

Completing a 4,000-mile trip at the age of two months, Ilay Ferrier, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. W. Ferrier of England, France, China and today America—was among passengers arriving at the Army Base today aboard the Dollar liner President Harrison.

Aboard the Harrison, completing a trip around the world, was Mrs. Martha R. Gold, secretary to Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire. Mrs. Gold was accompanied by her niece, Miss Lucille Pentecost of Knox, Ind.

Ship officers reported a rousing reception to Surgeon G. M. Terrill, ship's doctor, when the Harrison passed into Manila. Dr. Terrill was returning to 2,200 Filipinos for the interest of his late Major-General Leonard Wood as governor-general of the Philippines.

After unloading 2,200 tons of freight for Boston merchants, the Harrison will depart for New York tomorrow, completing her 13th voyage around the world.

WIFE CALLED "BIG COW" SECURES A DIVORCE

Mrs. Amelia Anderson disliked very much her husband, Axel, calling her a "big cow," and she brought the alleged reference out today as one of her principal marital grievances. In Middlesex Probate Court, Mrs. Anderson, now a housekeeper in Dover, was successful in securing a divorce decree from Judge Arthur Boune. Axel lives in Bridge street, Dedham.

Mrs. Anderson, also said Axel hurled her all over the place—mentally—by pointing out various holes in the ground at various times and telling her the holes would, some day, be her grave.

SINCLAIR AND FALL TO FACE NEW TRIAL

Kidwell previously had said he would denounce as "liars" all the charges against him.

Although there is no similar charge against them, the other nine men and two women on the dismissed jury will be questioned later by grand jurymen who also are investigating a charge that detectives in the employ of Harry F. Sinclair sought improperly to make contacts with the trial jury.

Kidwell was in the grand jury room for an hour and six minutes. When he emerged he said he had "told the truth" to the grand jurors and would return for further examination later in the day. No move was made to take him into custody.

MEANS NEW TRIAL.

While the grand jury was in session former Secretary Albert B. Fall, joint defendant, with Sinclair in the conspiracy charges growing out of the leasing of Teapot Dome oil reserve, issued a statement at his hotel disclaiming any connection whatever with the alleged "jury shadowing," and declaring he was ready for re-trial immediately. He said Justice Siddons had taken the obviously right course in declaring a mistrial.

Government and defense counsel will get together soon to discuss plans for impanelling new trial jury. The government favors bringing the case again to trial within a few weeks.

Kidwell's denial of the charges against him was sweeping. He told members after he left the Grand Jury room that while he had talked to J. Ray Akers, a street car conductor who quoted him in an affidavit, he had told Akers that he could not discuss the case in which he was sitting as a juror.

At no time in the talk, he said, had he made the remark about "a car as long as a block," attributed to him by Akers, or made any mention of a motor car whatever.

OTHER JURORS TALK.

Robert C. Flora, the only member of the jury who, according to the government reports, was not shadowed by detectives, said today he could not understand why he was "slighted."

"We tried to figure it out," he said, "and I have decided that either they had not gotten down to my name on the list, or I drove my car too fast for them to keep track of me."

Norman J. Glascock said he reviewed his every action since being sworn in while awaiting the court to reconvene. He said that he and other members of the jury resented deeply the things said to have been done by Kidwell.

Others confirmed that the feeling against Kidwell among the jurors had grown hourly since the first revelation of a possible mistrial.

The mistrial means that the government must present all over again, before a new jury, every scrap of the evidence on which it seeks to convict Fall and Sinclair of having conspired in the leasing of the Teapot Dome oil reserve to Sinclair while Fall was Secretary of the Interior.

Jury-Tampering Probe Extends to New York

Washington, Nov. 2 (I.N.S.)—A sweeping federal investigation of charges of jury tampering in the Fall-Sinclair case was under way today after the mistrial was declared.

Those involved in the investigation included Charles G. Ruddy, a manager for the Burns Detective Agency, and the 15 operatives who are charged in government affidavits with having shadowed 11 of the 12 jurors every minute since the inception of the trial two and a half weeks ago.

Before Juror Kidwell was called today, A. Mason Day, vice-president of the Sinclair Exploration Company, to whom, Burkinshaw charges, Ruddy reported, was before the grand jury.

A subpoena was also issued for Donald Woodward, local department store owner, in whose home Day has been staying. On the jury was an employe of Woodward.

Police Fur Thief Hunters Are Busy Getting 'Goats'

The Boston police have not captured as yet any of the robbers who are breaking into fur stores, but they are making it most unpleasant for business men who wish to come out of them late at night.

A Boylston street business man who has an office in a building housing a fur store today complained to Captain Kneeland of Division 16 that every time he leaves the building late at night he is seized and cross-examined, by officers.

He asked that the officers on duty at this building be instructed as to his identity.

DOG SET ON SON, SAYS MOTHER

An angered mother today asked police to arrest Philip Gerstein of River street, Cambridge, charging that he goaded a huge dog into viciously attacking her four-year-old son.

She is Mrs. Maud Brown, living at the same address as Gerstein. The boy was so badly bitten, she stated, that he required medical aid, and many of the wounds needed suturing.

CAVEMAN PETTERS TEAR DOWN BARRIERS

Caveman petters barred from a favorite spot a week ago when the park department closed the Columbia Beach parking spaces in South Boston, today tore down concrete posts and iron bars erected by the department at the four entrances.

Last year petters used the spaces on either side of the bathhouse much to the annoyance of the police. This Fall the park department determined to bar them during the beach's closed season by erecting the posts and rails. But they made no allowance for the fact that caveman petters exist.

WHAT COULD BE FAIRER?

Danger Ahead! Don't Cut Too Close!

Just as the motorist cutting too close, wrecks his car—as the yachtsman sailing too close capsizes his craft—just so, does the person who tries to buy furniture too close, invite sure and certain disaster.

There is, in furniture values, a zero mark—a dropping off point, beyond which price and worth no longer balance, and the lower one goes, the wider the gap becomes.

Far better to go to a reliable store, whose ownership and reputation is known, and be guided by the advice of an honest salesman, who will show you just where and how to save.

Go to a store that you know to be above handling furniture built for "cheap" trade—one that refuses to handle any merchandise that it cannot conscientiously guarantee, and that stands squarely behind whatever it may sell, now, and in the years to come. Go to a store that uses plain figures on its price tags—assurance that each customer pays the same amount—to a store that gives you an itemized bill listing the description and factory number of your purchases, positive assurance that you get the goods you bargained for. Go to a store that you can check up! A store that your relatives and friends can recommend in every way. In short he pleases without being greeted with "How come, etc."

Van Loon maintains a separate establishment. So does she.

Each is at liberty to work out his or her career without advice or hindrance on the part of the other.

There will be no sharing of property or money as there is no sharing of the home.

Such association as there may be between them is always by agreement.

Both Van Loon and his bride appear to have had ample training for the experiment, he having been married twice before, while his bride has been to the altar once.

Van Loon says he does not remember the date on which he and Miss Goodrich, who first attained stardom in "Come Out of the Kitchen," were married, nor does he remember the name of the Jersey city where the ceremony took place.

The union followed a three-year courtship. Van Loon's separate establishment is in Greenwich Village. While that of Miss Goodrich is in the midtown district, near the theatres.

"It's all an experiment," Van Loon is quoted as saying. "If it works out this way, well and good. If it doesn't, well—we'll try it some other way."

Van Loon, a native of Holland and a Cornell graduate, was married first to the former Eliza Bowditch, of Boston and later to the former Helen Criswell.

His present wife was formerly married to Robert Ames, actor, from whom she was divorced in 1923.

Of the present experiment Van Loon avers:

"Here are we, two mature people, working at our own experiment. We are educated, we think we know. So far we have been very happy. Well, why not?"

Van Loon, who is forty-five, added that he and Miss Goodrich, who is in her thirties, have been able to retain the romance of their courtship. When asked why they were married in New Jersey he said it was because his wife was born there. He added:

"It is a town of factories and chimneys and she asked me if I could imagine it as her birthplace. I told her I could not imagine so beautiful a being originating in such surroundings."

Lilo Miss Fanny Hurst, another writer, who in 1920 announced that she had contracted a similar independent alliance with Jacques S. Danielson, a composer, Miss Goodrich retains her name as a single woman.

Miss Hurst said that she and her husband had breakfast together twice a week, but later admitted that "truth is, I never eat breakfast." This union has served on a basis of individualism since 1915.

INVESTIGATE PHILIPPINE OLIGARCHY

By JAMES T WILLIAMS, JR.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Congress will be asked by leaders of both houses to look into conditions in the Philippines that are said to require immediate attention.

Instead of a government of three branches, for which the organic law of the islands provides, only the executive branch is functioning today as the law intended, and that is embarrassed by the condition of the other branches.

The legislative branch, according to official reports, has been strangled into a coma by an oligarchy which has been described as "drunk with stolen power."

The judicial branch has suffered at the hands of this same oligarchy. Brave and honest judges have sent to Washington an appeal to be protected from further attempts at corruption and intimidation.

In the light of late reports it appears that the chief reason why outside capital will not go into the islands in sufficient quantities to increase the insular revenues is because there is no longer a government which gives protection.

The Washington government no longer has control over the more than $600,000, donated to the support of the Philippines every year, but a proposal will be made in Congress to safeguard this by placing it under the control of the President and the Secretary of War.

CHURCH WOMEN OBSERVE TWO ANNIVERSARIES

With Trinity Church crowded with women today, joint services were held in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Girls' Friendly Society in America and the Massachusetts Branch, Women's Auxiliary of the International Council.

Following the corporate communion service, a remembrance book, containing the names of the late Elizabeth Edson of Lowell, founder of the Girls' Friendly Society, and other early workers in the organization, was presented to Bishop Charles L. Slattery.

The presentation was made by Miss Eva D. Corey, president of the auxiliary, and Miss Cornelius F. Whittier, president of the Massachusetts Branch of the Friendly Society. They were accompanied to the altar by Miss Grace Lindley, national executive secretary of the auxiliary, and Miss Frances Bibley of Detroit, national president of the Girls' Friendly Society.

An address by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Lawrence was followed by the taking up of an offering for remodeling Bishop Rowe's Christ Church at Anvik, Alaska.

Tonight the opening session of the assembly of the National Council of the Girls' Friendly Society will be held at the Hotel Statler, and the speakers will include Miss Mary Glasspoo, president of the Girls' Friendly Society in Canada.

BETTY ALDEN'S SOCIETY COMMENT

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Swift of Commonwealth Avenue Give Dance to Daughter, Ruth, This Evening

TO THE LOVELY DEBUTANTE AND TO HER SWAIN, DANCING ARDENT ATTENTION at her flying heels, this evening's large dance at the Hotel Somerset is an occasion of glamorous promise. Mr. and Mrs. George H. Swift of Commonwealth avenue and the North Shore illumine the early season with a ball for their debutante daughter, Miss Ruth Swift. There's the usual preliminary dinner for the ushers, and a ball guest-list running into the several hundreds—just the sort of brilliant occasion to furnish the bud with some thrilling chit-chat over the tea cups for some time to come.

BECAUSE, BE THERE EVER SO MANY LUNCHEONS AND TEAS WRITTEN DOWN in the debutante engagement book, for a real thrill the bud of the season loves the large ball, and especially do she and her swain adore the after midnight hours, when the dowagers have called their motors and departed, and the glistening ballroom floor and the lilting music belong aloue to the "young set."

TWO DEBUTANTE BALLS IN ONE WEEK IS RICH FARE INDEED, CONSIDERING sundry eliminations that have taken place in the bud calendar. Added to her other first year energies, the debutante is hard put to it, to keep her engagement book au courant. The busy bud could very well employ a secretary to keep track of additions thereto and subtractions therefrom. But for each affair eliminated, immediately there pops up another to fill its place.

EARLY IN THE BRAND NEW YEAR OF 1928, MR. AND MRS. ALBERT M. CREIGHTON of No. 340 Beacon street give a ball, at the Hotel Somerset, for Miss Peggy Creighton. This is set for the evening of January 6. Seven days later Miss Rose Saltonstall Movius is the pretty central figure for whom is staged a ball with Mrs. John S. Curtis as hostess. November goes out merrily to the wail of syncopation—via Mrs. Albert Graves' party, also at the Hotel Somerset, and also for the debutantes.

MERRILY CALLS THE HUNTER'S HORN THIS MORNING, VERY EARLY, AND AWAY over the field streak the Millwood hunt after the hounds on the trail of lithe and racing Sir Reynard. A very busy day is the Millwood program. Noon finds Millwood and their guests (from Myopia, Dedham, Norfolk, Quansett and Jacobs Hill) lunching at the Meadowbrook Club, and afternoon finds a most important occasion in progress, the annual Hounds Trails. And all day long will Miss Dorothy Neyhart, an associate M. F. H. for Millwood, be a very busy young woman.

THE HUNTING SETS NEVER REST, APPARENTLY. SATURDAY IS ANOTHER BIG day. The Norfolk Hunt for its annual "Farmers" Day sets the first class at nine thirty and thereafter a class every half hour is in progress until luncheon, and for the afternoon there are seven classes—not the least interesting of which will be the drag hounds exhibition. Norfolk potentates ask that riders appear in "pink," which means a variety of colors, such as green, red, buff and the like, whatever is the formal dress for the field.

ONCE MORE ESTABLISHED IN HIS MARLBOROUGH STREET home (for several years the town residence of the Misses Thomas) Mr. Charles Henry Fiske and his bride have had as one of their first guests Miss Mary Penelope Russell of England. Miss Russell is the sister of Mrs. Fiske, who was Miss Winifred Russell, and very shortly says bon voyage to these shores. She sails on the Celtic from Boston on Sunday next.

NO MATTER WHAT THE CALENDAR INDICATES, BACK BAY children are happy to continue their Summertime play program, and bring out to the "Gardens" their favorite toys and games. Little Miss Joan Raymond is the sturdy young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan S. Raymond, of No. 15 Marlborough street, and every sunshiny day of this extraordinary Autumn she is out with her scooter. Perhaps the scooter is proper training in energetic ways that will stand her in good stead when she is a debutante, and dances miles on miles each evening of her first Winter.

AFTER THEIR RETURN FROM A HONEYMOON ABROAD MR. and Mrs. Minton Machado Warren still have the pleasant occupation before them of choosing an abode. Even though the address of the new establishment is not settled, nevertheless its furnishing to some extent is accomplished, by way of the interesting things Mr. and Mrs. Warren have gathered on their interesting honeymoon travels. Mrs. Warren was Miss Sarah Ripley Robbins, and she trod the bridal aisle to the altar of King's Chapel just a very short time ago.

Estelle to Appear in 'The Whip Woman'

BY LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Los Angeles, Nov. 2.—Estelle Taylor has very effectively put a stop to the many rumors that she had left the screen for a life of domesticity by signing a contract with Robert Kane to play the feminine lead in "The Whip Woman." For almost a year Estelle, who is regarded as one of the most finished actresses on the screen, hasn't made a picture, principally because she was under contract to United Artists and they never had a story suitable for her talents.

The test made by James C. Boyle, the director, of Estelle as the Russian peasant girl heroine of Forrest Haley's original story, "The Whip Woman," shows that Miss Taylor has never looked better. In fact, after seeing the test, Robert Kane telegraphed Richard Rowland, general manager of First National, and told him the part was made for Estelle. And when Estelle long-distanced Jack to tell him that she had signed the contract, Jack said: "Okay, Honey." So all is well.

Everyone looked for Bessie Love at the Mayfair Club dance Saturday night. Bessie is one of the most regular attendants at these parties, and it didn't seem right not to see her. All the film world was represented. There was a reason for her absence—she was getting ready on a few hours' notice to go to New York and play the lead in "Anybody Seen Kelly," a Universal comedy.

In her party are William Wyler, director, and a cameraman. Their instructions are to film Bessie in Central Park, the Museum of Art and on Ellis Island, with a few good shots of Manhattan's W. K. traffic jam.

California's unusual weather held up production—outdoor, I mean—in nearly every studio. Harold Lloyd wasn't affected by it one bit. He made exterior scenes at Wrigley Field on "Speedy," using lights and shooting into the bleachers with as much unconcern as if Old Sol was doing its usual California stuff.

Babe Ruth, who worked with Harold in New York, is working with the company this week. He leaves Saturday for the East to start training on his farm.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has its own polofield, and maybe you don't think it's being patronized. Sanford Hewitt, who was the instructor of the polo team at Yale University for three years and coach of the freshman team there for two years, was engaged to teach Billy Haines how to play polo for his next picture.

The "flu" is on a rampage in Hollywood. Bebe Daniels, who was stricken a week ago, remains a very sick girl, and yesterday Warner Brothers had to replace Helene Costello in "Across the Pacific." Monte Blue's picture, as Miss Costello, who was signed for the part, was taken sick.

WARNS LOWELL TO 'DRESS IN COTTON'

Fall River Suitor Dies in 'Mystery' Shooting

LOWELL IN FIGHT TO SAVE MILLS

Lowell, Nov. 2.—"The situation in Lowell is tragic and something revolutionary or radical must be done," Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long said at a vital discussion of tax relief for the local mills.

"The people of Lowell must shoulder the burden if they want to keep the textiles," Commissioner Long said. "They must wear cotton instead of silk and ride in Fords instead of Packards."

The conference was attended by officials of the mills and the Chamber of Commerce, by Mayor Thomas J. Corbett, the board of assessors, members of the City Council and Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers, attired in a cotton gown.

It resulted from the closing or removal from the city of several mills, the threatened removal of others, and a wage reduction in at least one.

"I do not mean any criticism of Mayor Corbett or the assessors," said Commissioner Long in his opening remarks. "Lowell must determine first whether it wants to keep the textiles. If so it must be prepared to make sacrifices.

TAXES A 'FOOTBALL.'

"The tax rate, as a matter of fact, has been kicked around like a football not only in Lowell but in other cities and towns. It is unfair to tax the textile mills on the basis of reproductive value. Out of nine of the textiles which were making a profit in Lowell in 1921, five have left the city and two are hobbling along."

Commissioner Long advised the Chamber of Commerce committee to get together with the Board of Assessors and arrange for a survey of all taxable property in the city.

He said the Chamber of Commerce and mill executives would be surprised at the problems which confront the assessors. Any relief, he declared, should be given to all mills and taxes should not be laid heavily on prosperous mills.

The tax commissioner said that experiences in Lowell have not been equalled in Massachusetts. Textile mills, he said, have been sold here for almost nothing in comparison with their assessed valuation.

SACRIFICES ARE NEEDED.

Francis R. Bord, an attorney representing the Pepperell Manufacturing Co., operating the Massachusetts Cotton Mills in Lowell and in other New England cities, said that their losses in recent years totalled nearly $4,000,000. He criticized the board of assessors, citing an instance where they assessed obsolete apindles.

Allen McNab, president of the New England Southern mills, complained that taxation was so high it worked a burden on the mills and they were compelled to cut.

Congresswoman Rogers said Lowell people would be willing to make sacrifices to keep the mills. She criticized the manufacturers for not coming in closer contact with Lowell people.

Oliver P. Greenwood, agent for the Saco-Lowell shops, manufacturers of textile machinery, said his company was considering consolidation with their Biddeford plant, and that Biddeford had promised them 5 years free of taxation.

Mayor Corbett pointed out that everything could not be done in a minute. He said the situation was a heritage, and while he will do everything humanly possible to bring about relief for the mills, they must have patience.

RECORD CATCHES OF COD MADE OFF BLOCK ISLAND

Providence, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—That Block Island fishermen have made record catches of cod during the last 10 days is indicated by the cargoes of the May Archer, a small steamer plying between here and the island.

The vessel has brought more than 20 tons of fish daily, all caught with hand lines from dories and motor boats anchored close to the shore. Elmer Dodge, single-handed, caught 1,800 pounds in one day.

LAWRENCE BABY KILLED IN POT OF BOILING WATER

Lawrence, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Cecile Sirois, aged three, youngest of a family of nine children, is dead as a result of toppling into a pail of boiling water. The child was pulling a little car around the kitchen floor when she lost her balance and fell into the water.

ALPERT DROPS GOODWIN SUIT

The $5,000 suit brought by George Alpert, former assistant district attorney, against Frank A. Goodwin, Registrar of Motor Vehicles, was dropped today after a jury had been impanelled before Judge Williams in Suffolk Superior Court. In a letter sent to the attorney-general, on December 11, 1925, Goodwin referred to alleged inefficiency and favoritism on the part of the district attorney and his assistants.

After a conference at the bench, Goodwin took the stand, and while declaring he had no apologies to make for having sent the letter, said he was sorry if it injured or caused injury to Alpert. In response to a question he said he found out afterwards that his statement regarding Alpert was not true.

COOLIDGES AT WEDDING OF MISS BARBARA HIGHT

Washington, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—A home wedding of Miss Barbara Hight, daughter of Frank S. Hight, manager of the New Willard Hotel, to Charles David Hayes of this city was attended today by President and Mrs. Coolidge.

The friendship of the Hight family with Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge dates to the days when the President lived at the New Willard while Vice-President. Mrs. Coolidge wore a scarlet gown with hat to match and a black fox fur.

Schwab Home is for Sale

New York, Nov. 2.—The Charles M. Schwab mansion, one of the show places on Riverside Drive, is being offered for sale at a price reported to be $5,000,000.

Girl's Death Is Due to Desire for Clean Hose

New York, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Her desire for clean stockings brought death today to Celia Brenner, sixteen-year-old Bronx schoolgirl.

She had been preparing to move with her family to a new home when she found that all her clothing had been packed. Removing her stockings, she washed them and went to the fire escape of their second-floor apartment to hang them on a line.

A moment later she plunged through the well of the platform, bounded off the platform on the floor below and fell to the courtyard, her head crashing against the concrete pavement. She was pronounced dead of a fractured skull.

200 Die in Tribal War

Jerusalem, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—A serious outbreak of fighting amongst the Shaiah, including the Rualu and Syrian Redouin tribes, has resulted in 200 casualties, say dispatches from Damascus. The fighting had its source in rivalry between tribal leaders.

ARREST LOYAL COALITION MAN

Brenton H. MacCurdy, evangelist and erstwhile officer of the Loyal Coalition and Patriotic and Protestant Society of Boston, is in the toils of the law again on a bogus check charge.

He was arrested today by Special Officers Lynch and Dwyer of the Milk street station at his home on Powder Hill boulevard, Somerville, upon complaint of Vincent Bilotta, proprietor of a bootblacking parlor at 122 High street.

Bilotta told the police that MacCurdy had given him a check for $25 which was returned from the bank as worthless.

Milk Wagon Driver Hurt

John Gilligan, thirty-four, of No 67 Greenwich street, Dorchester sustained a fractured skull and lacerations of the left eye when the milk wagon he was driving was struck by an automobile on the southern artery in Dorchester today. John Corrica, Jr., of Beacon street, driver of the car, took the injured man to the City Hospital.

HE SAVES PARROT IN FIGHT, BUT GIRLS GET HIS $150

With a parrot perched on his shoulder, William B. Clay, boasting no relation to the great statesman, told Judge Duff in Municipal court today the details of a bitter battle with two sirens to retain possession of his parrot and roll of $150.

"I got the parrot but they got the roll, Judge," he said.

William appeared with Patrolman Joseph Garvey to procure a warrant for the arrest of the girls.

"I was walking down Allston street, judge, when someone attempted to steal my parrot," he said. "When the thing was over, I had the parrot, but the $150 I had in my belt was gone. That's my story, judge. I defended my parrot and lost my money."

Judge Duff granted two warrants against Mary Doe and her well-known legal sister, Jane Doe. And, of course, if the police get them they'll have to face William and his parrot and explain what became of the money.

SUCCUMBS AS 'MARTYR TO LOVE'

Fall River, Nov. 2.—Dalpha J. Pelletier, 22, of Queen street, died today at Union Hospital from gunshot wounds—a martyr to his wooing of 19-year-old Thelma Berard of Swansea.

Pelletier was shot last Sunday night as he was seated on a couch in the home of pretty Thelma, whose house, twice in the last three years, has been bombed by a person or persons still unidentified, but believed to be man-crestfall and jealous suitors of the girl.

Immediately following the death of Pelletier, District Attorney William C. Crossley and State Detective Francis W. Fleming, pressed by reporters, admitted that they had obtained a deathbed statement from the suitor.

They would not reveal, however, whether the name of any person was included in the statement, nor would they disclose any of the statement's contents.

Also, the police admitted that since last night they have been questioning Arthur Berard, brother of Thelma, and Rudolph Deschampe of Swansea, both of whom were arrested—but later released without prosecution—in connection with the bombings of the Gerard house in 1924 and 1926.

A grilling has likewise been given, according to the police, to 20-year-old Ernest Blais of Oak street, Swansea, who, at the time of the second bombing, was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury on a charge of sending letters to Miss Gerard, warning her to keep away from "certain fellows."

END DISPUTE IN PAY RAISE TO 13,000

The controversy holding up salary increases for 13,000 State employees ended today when Frank H. Putnam of Lowell resigned from the commission on administration and finance, and was immediately appointed director of personnel and standardization.

This meant a victory for Attorney General Arthur K. Reading, who ruled that the classification should be made by a director of personnel and standardization and not by the commission, but Putnam loses $750 a year by the move, his new salary being fixed at $5,750.

Putnam then recommended to the Governor and council the adoption of a new draft of the documents in dispute, changed to meet the objections of Registrar Goodwin, Reading and Treasurer Youngman, which was immediately approved.

DR. DIEFFENBACH SAYS HE MEANT CREED CHURCHES

By The Associated Press.

Dr. Albert C. Dieffenbach, whose recently published statement that Protestantism, because it is creed-bound, is entering a new dark age has provoked wide discussion in religious circles, explained today that in one respect he had misquoted and misunderstood. He said he did not make the statement that there were no outstanding clergymen preaching freedom.

"I referred," he said, "to the leaders in the creedal churches who are today all silent. There are many ministers, outstanding and otherwise, who are doing all in their power to preach freedom, but they are not in the creedal churches."

BALCHEN SAYS HE HASN'T ACCEPTED GRAYSON OFFER

New York, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Lieutenant Bernt Balchen today denied assertions by Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson that he had accepted her offer to pilot her amphibian plane, "The Dawn," across the Atlantic to Copenhagen this year.

Balchen, who made the Atlantic air crossing with Commander Richard E. Byrd last June, announced he would attempt a second crossing in the Grayson plane if he could give it preliminary tests and if he could be relieved temporarily from his duties as a test pilot for Anthony H. G. Fokker, airplane designer and builder.

4 IN COURT IN HOTEL RAIDS

Four men who were arrested in two raids on rooms in the new Elks Club and Clarendon Hotel on information furnished by agents of the Watch and Ward Society pleaded not guilty when arraigned today before Judge Sullivan in municipal court.

The defendants are Harry Carey, charged with keeping and exposing liquor; John Murphy, charged with having in his possession a lottery, and Daniel J. Woolhermin and Fred C. Herserman, charged with promoting a lottery. On request of the police the cases were continued until November 10.

Carey and Murphy were arrested on the fifth floor of the Elks Club during a raid by eight police men in charge of Patrolman Oliver Garrett of the liquor squad at headquarters. Agents of the Watch and Ward Society directed the officers to the room where the men were arrested.

According to the raiding officers, thirty quarts of whiskey and three gambling machines were seized in the room. The raid created a considerable stir throughout the club as the officers entered the lobby and crowded into an elevator.

Woolhermin and Herserman were arrested in the raid at the Clarendon Hotel.

A Great Love Serial by an Expert on Affairs of the Heart

Ann and Georgie Hastings, sisters, live together at Mrs. O'Leary's Dorchester boarding house. Ann, the elder, works in a South Boston factory and Georgie works in a Milk street insurance office. Ann is proud of her sister's good looks and charming manner. She thinks it would be a good thing if Georgie married Bill Warren, who has no money, but who is madly in love with Georgie. Bill invites Ann to lunch and shows her an engagement ring he has bought for Georgie. Jimmy McCormick, manager of one of the departments, an admirer of Ann, asks her out for the evening, but she refuses. On the way home she sees Georgie riding in a shining new car with a stranger. Later the car stops at Mrs. O'Leary's door, Georgie does not introduce her sister to the young man in the car and Ann hears her agreeing to meet him the next day. She makes up her mind to have a talk with her sister.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 3.

PERHAPS Georgie herself realized that it was hopeless to avoid Ann's lecture. She looked a little sullen, a little bored at the prospect.

When dinner had dragged its monotonous course through to the end, Georgie rose and went up to the room without any further attempts to escape or hide.

She was standing before the mirror, a lipstick in her hand, her level brows drawn down in concentration. Her soft light hair seemed to retain the sunlight, her eyes frank and quick and feminine, her young curves of her young body—all these were irresistible.

She would never be prettier than she was now in the very heyday of her youth and freshness.

Ann's regular features with their hint of gravity, the warm, understanding mouth, the eyes with their sense of troubled wisdom and responsibility, her smooth, carefully tended hair—these might outlast Georgie's more perishable beauty but they could never reach the summit which Georgie had attained.

Ann stood in the doorway, watching her younger sister, frowning a little. She wasn't angry, but she was uncomfortable. There was nothing so wrong about "picking up" men, she told herself for the hundredth time, not at any rate when your spirit was as light hearted and innocent of motive as Georgie's. What was wrong was the danger it involved, and of course Georgie felt that she could take care of herself in any situation.

"I'm awfully tired," Ann said simply.

Georgie had not turned, but now her lip twitched a little.

"Oh, of course, I wouldn't think of your working on that dress tonight if you don't want to."

"You know I don't mean that, Georgie. Why are you so unfair."

Georgie turned instinctively with a rush of warmth and remorse. "Oh, darling, I don't mean to be. I'm really so crazy I don't know what I'm saying half the time. I'm sorry you're so tired."

"Coming home in that rush hour takes all the strength out of me," Ann sighed.

Again Georgie's mood veered, suddenly and without warning.

"While I, you mean, rode home comfortably in the open air in a good-looking car. That is, what you mean, isn't it?"

"No, Georgie, it isn't. But since you've brought it up, I do want to talk to you about it. Where did you meet that man, Georgie?"

"Corner of Milk and Congress streets. Any objection?" Georgie demanded. Her lip trembled a little in a way she had. She looked almost pitiable, so that the sting of her words meant nothing. It was just desperate defiance.

"Why will you do that, Georgie? You shouldn't."

"Why shouldn't I?"

"Because — because— Because you shouldn't!"

"You see, you haven't even a reason!" Georgie declares. "You're just old-fashioned, and you can't understand how I feel about things like that. Why what harm in the world could there be? One of the girls in our office is married to a man she met like that—he's got all kinds of money, too, and he's crazy about her."

"Exceptions don't prove the rule."

"Oh, Ann, you make me sick. You talk as if you'd been reading a lot of lies about poisoned needles and murders and things like that."

"But things like that do happen, don't they? And what's the use of getting to know a man with lots of money if it's only bound to end in some ugly way. Because sooner or later he'll show what he's like and then—"

"Oh, why bother about "then." Before he does, you're been to the theater and dances and dined in swell places and had a lot of fun, haven't you?"

"I can't argue with you, Georgie. Only I'm going to say you once more."

"It's got a right to live my own life."

"No, you haven't, Georgie. No one

RADIO DIALOG

by C. WILLIAM RADO

A NEW era has dawned in Washington and the government has decided to broadcast more interesting reports. The first broadcast was sent over the new inaudible broadcasting system and sounded something like this.

Announcer—"Now ladies and gentlemen let me say that the hour of 9 has just struck through the courtesy of the U. S. Weather Bureau. We have just received a telegram asking us what time it is. When the gong strikes it will be time to fill out your income blanks."

A message was broadcast at 9:30 W. E. S. T. to all admirals, captains and barbers' assistants requiring them to report immediately at Washington. Static was heavy all over the Eastern part of the country and so only three admirals were fired. However, it is expected that reception will be better tomorrow night.

Announcer—"Tonight we are going to take you to Russia on a little investigation under the direction of Senator Borah. As the first strains of 'O Sole Mio' are heard the Senator starts his daily demand for an investigation in something or other.

"We have just received a request that Al Smith sing 'Sidewalks of New York.' Well folks, we're going to ask Al to play that ditty piece and we hope Theodore Roosevelt will accompany him on the piano. What's that Al? . Oh, it's too bad, Teddy says he dropped the music out of the window accidently.

You know folks it's pretty hot up here, we don't have any window fans.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical descovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

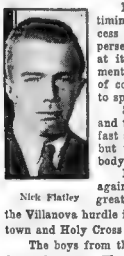
STUHLDREHER TEACHES PUPILS ROCKNE STUFF

BOSTON gets its annual dash of Notre Dame football when Villanova comes to Braves Field Saturday to play the B. C. Eagles. Harry Stuhldreher, field general of the immortal Four Horsemen, coaches the Pennsy team, and he hands his young men a lot of the stuff that he gathered in four years under the great Rockne.



Nick Flatley

Notre Dame football is built on speed and timing and nothing else but. Rockne's great success has been attained because he has the perseverance to keep his young men eternally at it until they carry through their assignments instinctively. The well-known Knute, of course, has football brains and originality to spare.

Stuhldreher was his most brilliant pupil and the Villanova teams play plenty of smart, fast and flashy football. The college is small, but the football outfit isn't a joke for anybody.

Boston College swung into real form against West Virginia Wesleyan and showed great strength at Fordham. If it can get by the Villanova hurdle it will be well on the way to take Georgetown and Holy Cross for a successful finish.

The boys from the Will Penn district will throw a lot of forward passes. They will try laterals and trick stuff. They will give the gang a run for its money all the time. They did a year ago, if you recall.

With Harvard off in Philadelphia resuming gridiron strife with Penn, the Eagles have the local field to themselves. Villanova as an enemy should attract a big gang to the Wigwam. Some of the East's hardest and fastest football is played on that same baseball lot.

SOME PEOPLE THINK THAT FREE PASSES ARE THE PRINCIPAL FEATURE OF MODERN FOOTBALL.

We have seen football games that inclined us to agree with City Councillor Guild, who believes that all school and college sports should be conducted without spectators

THE STADIUM MIGHT BE CALLED HARVARD'S FOLLY. THEY DIDN'T BUILD IT HALF BIG ENOUGH.

BARNARD QUALIFIES TO TAKE OVER BAN'S JOB

MISTER EDWARD S. BARNARD has been elected head of the American League. He has been groomed for the job for the matter of a year now, and knows what it's all about.

He stepped into the presidency of the Cleveland team when all was not well with that outfit, and restored peace and prosperity. Mister Barnard is what the novelists call one of those strong, silent men. He says little, but observes much. He believes in diplomacy rather than bulldozing.

Once he makes up his mind, though, he's as stubborn as a combination of Maud and Gibraltar. He makes no snap judgments and is a mighty level-headed, sensible party for any kind of an administrative job.

Steering a big league is a touch proposition. The members are easy to handle only when they get what they want individually. With eight chimmahs for everything that means anything, the boss has to be tactful.

Barnard should be a good president. He will have to be with his league somewhat shaken after the loss of the two Johnsons—Han and Walter. No two men ever did more for large league baseball than that pair.

DEMPSEY SAYS HE DOESN'T KNOW WHETHER HE'LL FIGHT AGAIN. ASK TEX. HE KNOWS.

THIS MANAGER WANTED ACTION, ANY KIND

HOCKEY will be with us, just as soon as football steps off the stage three weeks hence. The boys are getting ready now and it looks like a large Winter for the Canadian sport in these parts.

Which reminds us that George Vincent Brown, who handles the game at the Arena, had an interesting interview not so long since. A dark gentleman entered his office.

"Mistah Brown," he grinned, "ah represents the Ecu-reeka hockey club. Those black boys suah can play that hockey game, Mistah Brown, an' nothin' else but. They's a fee meetin' gang from houah Scotia, Mistah Brown, and tough hockey is the fondes' thing they is of. Ah suah would like the n boys to play in yuah Arena, Mistah Brown."

"Do you play amateur or professional?" the interested Mister Brown inquired.

"Mistah Brown," came back the manager, "we plays either, or both, or anything you desires."

What could be fairer?

Malden to Play Fitchburg Nov. 12

Malden High has booked the undefeated Fitchburg eleven to take the place of Everett on its football schedule. The game will be played at the Pearl Street Stadium, Malden, November 12.

Fitchburg originally had a game scheduled with the Boston High School of Commerce on that date but cancelled the contest on receiving Malden's invitation.

New York Clubs Fight for Paddock-M'Allister Race

New York, Nov. 2 (I.N.S.).—New York athletic clubs were competing today for the prize of securing a Paddock-McAllister indoor dash race, following Charlie Paddock's announcement that he is open to indoor competition for the first time in many years.

After his 1926 indoor defeats here, Paddock had declared he was through with this form of running. Today, however, he had asserted that he was out to take the 100-meter and 150-yard titles from the present holder, Bob McAllister, the "Flying Cop." Several of the local clubs are hard at it to secure the matches.

4 TEAMS REFUSE FORFEIT WINS OVER EVERETT

Four high school football teams coached by the Everett High School have refused to allow Everett High to forfeit the games because of ineligibility during Captain Angie DiMott after he had passed his 20th birthday.

Dorchester High, coached by Carl Lundgren, an ex-Massachusetts Aggie star, was the first to decline to forfeit.

A second refusal came from Head Coach Ralph H. Andrews of the Worcester High School of Everett, and in the mail there is a third letter of refusal from Faculty Manager Henry Lynch of Ringge Technical.

The final high is expected to follow suit. Headmaster Wingate, showing true sportsmanship said "There is no honor in a victory by forfeit." He would refuse the forfeit if the Massachusetts High School Athletic Association said permit.

Newton and Brookline, the other teams who protest D. Motta ineligibility, will decline to abide by the Saltonstall League rule, which says that a school must forfeit all games in which an ineligible player has participated.

GLICK'S ANSWER TO COMMISSION AWAITED

New York, Nov. 2 (I.N.S.)—Eight fans were waiting today the answer of Joe Glick to the demand of the State athletic commission regarding the junior lightweight championship situation.

Glick had been signed to meet Ted Morgan December 16 for the title but the commission ruled yesterday that title must first meet Jack Bernstein, Yonkers lad, who formerly held the championship.

The commission approved the Morgan-Glick match, but attached the proviso that Glick first dispose of Bernstein. No word had been forthcoming from the Glick camp today other than indirect protests.

Villanova Will Start Regulars Against B. C.

Philadelphia, Nov. 2.—With the Boston College game four days away and Villanova's hopes for a Catholic championship hinging somewhat on the result, Coach Harry Stuhldreher gave the Wildcat eleven one of the hardest Tuesday workouts they have had this season.

A three-hour practice session, consisting of a scrimmage with the freshmen, polishing up of plays, and numerous other smaller things, was conducted on the old gridiron back of the college.

Nothing had descended upon the field before Stuhldreher called a halt on host tidies.

The second team, better known as the "shock troops" did most of the scrimmaging against the yearlings. The backfield of Fay, quarter; Coach Stuhldreher announced; Gillespie and Donovan, halfbacks; after practice session that he would start the same combination on Saturday.

He also declared a team would be the same as Fred John Carr, Lennon, tackles; Twomey and Lo Presto, ends; Conti and Donovan, guards; Gault, center. It was definitely stated that Mc Andrews and Shane, halfbacks, Jordan fullback.

It would be the first time such a combination would start, it was declared, since the season opened with nine regulars on the field.

KENNY BROOKS - GUARD ◆ FRED TWOOMEY - END

BOSTON COLLEGE FACES SOME FANCY STUFF

Here Saturday when Harry Stuhldreher sic.s his Villanova team onto the Eagles. Harry learned his stuff when he was one of the Four Horsemen in the Notre Dame Cavalry Stuhldreher has passed this nifty stuff along to the Villanova players. Two Bay State boys will be in the Villanova lineup. They are Kenny Brooks, guard, from Haverhill High and Fred Twoomey, end, from Lawrence High.

Eagles Have Respect for Villanova Team

Four horsemen, led by Harry Stuhldreher, galloped roughshod over many a green gridiron just a few years back and brought a national football title to Notre Dame. Four horsemen, led by the same Stuhldreher, will ride on the Braves Field football turf next Saturday against Boston College.

Stuhldreher has tucked away his collegiate moleskins and is coach at Villanova. He is bringing a nifty backfield with him to whip Boston College. One that is said to be every bit as fast and shifty as the famous quartet that Knute Rockne moulded together at Notre Dame.

The four on which Coach Stuhldreher is placing his hopes is composed of Captain Paul Kucno, quarterback, John Shane and Dark Mc Andrews, halfbacks, and Frank Jordan, fullback.

These same four gave indications of future greatness last Fall as Braves Field Boston College, defeated in that campaign, was given great guns Villanova eleven town, thought to be easy prey for the Eagles' sharp talons.

When the referees whistle ended blown B. C. was on top Villanova by 19?. But Coach Stuhldreher, mentor of the Eagles at that time was minus a couple of backfield men an afternoon of great fright and worry on the B. C. bench.

VILLA NOVA IS SHIFTY.

Stuhldreher's attack was a ways threatening. They made advance time and again that remained in the shadow of the B. C. goal-posts when the Eagle line fighting with every ounce of strength, managed to stave off the attacks of Villanova.

They threw passes short and long ones that kept B. C. backs bewildered. Then a passer at the line. An end run. A great reverse and perfectly timed charging. B. C. was thankful when the game was over and even more so because they had won. Many thought Villanova the better team on that afternoon, even though B. C. had been returned victorious.

Coach Stuhldreher has four more backfields at Villanova which he considers almost as good as the first quartet. He usually starts a second team backfield and then inserts his first quartet after a few minutes of play.

Paul Kucno, 160-pound captain and quarterback, is a reproduction of his coach. Paul left his mark in Boston last Fall and is said to be looking like All-American timber to date.

McAndrew is the sensation of the Villanova backfield. He is a triple threat who runs, plays and passes with equal ability. He came to Villanova from Lynn, where he starred by as a ticket taker at the Lynn Fair Grounds. He is Stuhldreher's big threat.

Villanova's four horsemen, although they will not be able to ride to a national title this Fall, due to a defeat by Bucknell, have already trotted to a high place in the college grid world.

Basketball on Ice Latest Rickard Novelty

New York, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Basketball on an ice floor is Tex Rickard's latest sports novelty.

When the promoter's original Celtics basketball team of the American Basketball League opens its season at Madison Square Garden November 21 against the Philadelphia Warriors they will be playing, in all probability, on an ice surface.

One of Rickard's employes has discovered that if imitation glass is laid on the Tex'aco marble base of the floor at Madison Square Garden and a thin coating of ice placed over that a surface with the resiliency of rubber is obtained.

Further experiments are being made to determine if the ice will last long enough for a basketball game.

Newark Club Is Congratulated by Coolidge

New York, Nov. 2 (A.P.)—Congratulations from President Coolidge were received today by Paul Block, newspaper publisher who recently purchased the franchise of the Newark International League baseball club and signed Walter Johnson, former Washington pitcher, as manager.

The President's letter reads: "Newark is to be felicitated on obtaining Walter Johnson to manage its baseball team. His selection is assurance that clean and true sportsmanship are as highly valued as are experience.

"I congratulate you in securing his services, and I wish both him and the Newark club success during the next season."

BROWN HAS HIS CHANCE TONIGHT

Lowell Boy Seeks Revenge in Return Bout Here With Joey Knapp

Bobby Brown, Lowell welterweight, who meets Joey Knapp, New York college boy, in a return battle tonight at Mechanics Building, under the direction of the Argonne A. A., is another Lithuanian star of the ring who is following in the footsteps of Jack Sharkey, his illustrious countryman.

And in a couple of years, it would not be surprising to witness Brown in the same ring with Sharkey in a heavyweight bout.

The Spinks City kid is growing fast and in view of the fact that he is only 18 years old it is almost a certainty that he will develop into a heavyweight within a couple of years.

Charlie Bonel, that was his name before he became prominent in the ring, was picked out of a stone quarry to become famous in the smoke. He was a stone cutter by trade.

Brown, who was 19 last July has participated in 37 bouts and in spite of his youth, only six decisions have gone against him. That's the chief reason he is so anxious to turn the tables on Knapp when he meets him tonight.

And Brown has measured up against some of the best fighters in his class. He started as a 125 lbs. fighter. Today he weighs about 147 pounds.

LAST BOUT A WOW.

The fans were not satisfied with the decision in the last bout between these rivals and tonight they will back their favorite to the limit.

The Argonne Club clinched the return match between these boys on account of the fact that their last bout was one of the greatest seen in the ring in five years.

The fans are still talking about it. The boys stood toe to toe for ten rounds, and most persons each trying desperately to land a knockout.

Half the jury favored the decision while the rest of them were positive that Brown had been robbed. There was such a demand for his bout that the Argonne Club was fortunate in being able to restage it.

FIVE PRELIM BOUTS.

Supporting the main bout tonight, the Argonne Club will present one of the best balanced preliminary cards of the season, consisting of an eight-round semifinal and five four-round bouts.

Johnny Barrett, Cambridge lightweight, who is scarcely looking forward to the day when he can climb into the ring to meet Honeyboy Finnegan here, will clash with Joe Accetta, lightweight champion of Rhode Island. If Barrett can take the measure of this boy it is expected that he will be in line for some big matches.

Barrett has come along fast under the direction of Barney Fox, and the fans consider the Cambridge boy the best acquired in these parts since Finnegan. Three or four good victories will make Barrett a popular card here.

NEW AMERICAN LEAGUE HEAD

Clancy and Sheldon With Purple Squad

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 2 (A.P.)—The Holy Cross football team's hopes of a victory over Fordham at Ne.s York Sunday was materially increased today with the announcement that both Rivers, Clancy and Sheldon Daley backfield performers will be available for the game. Clancy was sent in with the first team during the scrimmage today and it is believed that he will start against the Rams. Sheldon, who has taken a sudden turn for the better and he now expects to be able to play.

It is felt, however, that Clancy's injury and Sheldon Daley's weakness will prevent the team from being able to play because of injuries.

Dundee Favored to Retain Championship

Los Angeles, Nov. 2 (A.P.)—Two dollars and cents barometer of fight forecasting had entered today a new confidence in the ability of Joe Dundee to regain tomorrow night the title championship of the Nebraska "Wildcat" Ace Hudgens.

Two days ago the odds favored Hudgens but today even money prevailed.

Dundee's supporters, who are numerous, are to make a last minute drive to place their money on the Hudson sensation's chances. Hudgens' supporters are to make a last minute drive to place their money on the Hudson sensation's chances.

Inside Golf

By Chester Horton

In golf there are three major things for the brain to do, namely. Keep the player constantly reminded of his own weakness; to draw proper conclusions from the other fellow's position and to judge the shot before making it. Now takes these in order. Regarding your own weakness, it is the business of your brain to warn you against the use of the wrong club for a particular shot. Times without number you will swing a club which you know before making your shot is the wrong club for it. You know it, yet what do you do? You go right ahead because you don't want to bother to call the caddy and take the right club. A poor shot results. Proof positive that your brain rattled in your head at that particular moment in a completely confused condition.

TY COBB IS RELEASED BY MACKMEN

Philadelphia, Nov. 2 (A.P.)—Ty Cobb will NOT be with the Philadelphia Athletics next year. This was announced today after an hour's conference between Cobb and Connie Mack.

Mack announced that the Athletic management could not see its way clear to re-engage Cobb for next year.

"We like Cobb, we like his playing and we should like to have him next year," said Mack.

"We regret that this is not a Sunday baseball town which would give us more revenue and permit us to keep such a player as Cobb."

Cobb's reported salary with the Athletics last year was $60,000.

"I am sorry that I will not be with the A's next year," said Cobb.

"I enjoyed my stay in Philadelphia and my relations with the club were very pleasant."

Cobb would not talk about a rumored offer from a National League Club, but intimated, as he did in Detroit this week, that he might quit the game.

It was believed that Cobb may postpone any announcement of his plan for next year until he hears what other clubs might have to offer him.

"It would be a great loss to baseball if Ty should quit the game," said Mack. "I hope he stays in the game, even if he is not with the Athletics."

Giants May Sign Cobb for Next Season

possibility that Ty Cobb would be seen in the uniform of the New York Giants' uniform next season appeared today with the announcement of Cobb that definite retirement from the national pastime would await further offers.

Although John McGraw, manager of the Giants, and other officials of the club were out of the city, the announcement that Cobb's contract with Philadelphia would not be renewed for 1928 created considerable interest in the club offices

Baseball men said that McGraw undoubtedly was "interested" in Cobb, who played in 130 games last season and batted around .350, despite a slowing up of the Tyger. Cobb have carried him through 23 big league campaigns The Giant pilot, realizing the gate attraction of the former Detroit manager in the National League, might be willing to offer Cobb an attractive salary for at least one year

The Yankees probably will make no effort to sign Cobb, Secretary Ed Barrow indicated Barrow pointed out that the Yankees were already well fortified in the outfield.

Baseball men suggested there might be openings for Cobb's services in Cleveland, in the American League, or Boston and Brooklyn in the National. None of these teams will be mentioned as possible pilots for Cleveland in 1928 and the George Inn may be the tenth. Emil Fuchs, president of the Braves, still is casting about for a manager for next season.

PENN MAY FACE HARVARD SUBS

start. The fact is that he does not know. He admits that there is no chance of his starting the second team and there is an even shot that he will take this alternative.

In the two remaining sessions before the departure, Horween plans to reorganize his old attack and install as varied an attack as Harvard team has put on in years.

Brown will be the only team scouting the Crimson at Philadelphia and Horween is willing to give the Bruin scouts an eyeful in his endeavor to defeat the Quakers.

Scrimmages are completely out of the picture this week and the chances are that the Crimson will face the Penn team without a single scrimmage under his belt. Horween has brought his team along in rapid strides and feels that too many scrimmages will spoil the broth.

The Harvard students continue to turn back pasteboards and Harvard will be lucky if it has five hundred undergraduates to form a cheering section on Saturday.

The November hour examinations on Saturday have robbed those in good standing from taking cuts to make the trip, while those on probation are prevented by the refusal of the faculty to declare Saturday an athletic holiday

DARTMOUTH TO BUILD FINE HOCKEY RINK

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 2.—Announcement was made by Lewis Parkhurst of Winchester, Mass., senior member of the Dartmouth College board of trustees, that the trustees have voted to proceed with the erection of an arena especially adapted to ice hockey.

This decision was made public at the close of the annual Fall meeting of the Dartmouth trustees

It will not be possible to start the construction work on the building before next Spring. This precludes any possibility of having the rink ready for use for the coming hockey season.

Seating accommodations for upwards of 4,000 are being planned for hockey games and this can be greatly increased when the playing surface is not in use.

MR. BOSTON

By Jack Conway

"GEORGE V. TUOHEY passed out of life with a smile on his lips and with the same undaunted courage he had always shown during his years in sport," said Mr. Boston as he came into the sporting department today. "It was only a week ago that George dropped into the office to say 'hello' to the gang.

"Tuohey was known to the world as a famous sports promoter, but in his heart he was first and last a newspaper man. There's something about this game of printer's ink that gets into the blood and holds one. One cannot get away from it.

"Sport writing was Tuohey's first love and he was always true to it. He wrote plainly and truthfully. At times he drifted into other fields. Baseball, wrestling, boxing and other branches of athletics claimed Tuohey for a time, but he always came back to his typewriter in one of the newspaper offices of Boston, New York or Worcester.

"George carried a cane and looked very feeble when he called on me a week ago. But his courage was as strong as ever.

"'I'm feeling better than I have for several years,' he told me. 'I'm going to come back.'

"He refused to treat his own illness seriously. Instead he talked of his daughter, Helen, who has been in poor health for some time.

"'Helen has her father's spirit,' he said as tears glistened in his eyes. 'And she will soon be well again, as sound as ever.'

"LOVE for his family was always a strong trait in Tuohey. Mrs. Tuohey shared with him the worries of his sport promotions. On one occasion when he was confined to his bed for a long period with a broken leg, suffered while refereeing a wrestling match, Mrs. Tuohey stepped in and acted as matchmaker of his club.

"I always liked to listen to George talk about 'little Helen,' his daughter. She was always a baby in his eyes. One of the great happinesses of his life was her success.

"It was only natural that he should think of Helen most of the time despite his own illness. Love for his daughter and wife were second nature with him.

"TUOHEY'S promotions drew many hundreds of thousands of dollars, but George did not leave any great amount of worldly goods behind him. He spent most of his money in fighting the vicious wrestling trust which at times has tried to get into Boston.

"The trust had the backing of millions and it took every cent that Tuohey could get to prevent it from forcing him out of the promotion game. In the closing years of his life, George took great pleasure in the fact that Paul Bowser was carrying on his fight for him. As recently a last Winter, Tuohey and Bowser joined hands in active warfare on the wrestling trust.

"EVERYBODY who knew Tuohey admired his gameness. Once while in Europe he went into a cage filled with lions, armed only with a chair, and came out unmarked. He did this stunt on a dare.

"The newspaper boys got a great kick out of telling a story about the cigarettes George brought from Egypt. He wanted the gang to have a real Egyptian cigarettes. He made his purchases in Egypt and then paid double duty on the fags so as to get them into this country. When the packages were opened, it was found the cigarettes had been manufactured on Atlantic avenue, Boston. They had them shipped to Egypt

"Tuohey had been active in athletics as a ball player and as a referee. The world will remember him as a sport promoter, but to me he'll always be George V. Tuohey, newspaper writer and 100 per cent. man.

"I know that his legions of friends join with me in offering Mrs. Tuohey and 'little Helen' our deepest sympathy in their hour of sorrow."

CRIMSON IS TO ROW TIGERS

New Haven, Ct., Nov. 2 (I N S)—The program for Ed Leader's sixth year as head coach of Yale's oarsmen, announced here today, includes the usual race of 150-pound crews of Harvard, Princeton and Yale, and this year for the course at Derby.

When the rowing schedule was announced a year ago this race was given a tentative place and did not materialize The 150-pound crew race is the only one to which the Big Three have ever sent their crews at one time. Yale has for some years met Princeton and Cornell in a triangular regatta, in May, and Harvard in the famous New London regatta late in June

It was the Princeton crew that last May were the first to upset a Leader-coached Yale crew, and Harvard followed with conquest, lead by defeating Yale's varsity last June Beside meeting Princeton Harvard and Cornell next Spring, Yale will take on Columbia and Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, to open her season

The Yale 150-pound crew is to meet similar crews of Columbia, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts Tech next Spring Freshman oarsmen will row Columbia, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Cornell and Harvard, while the Yale third varsity will go into the American Henley races.

FULLER WILL NOT CHANGE RESIDENCE

Sammy Fuller, North End featherweight who is to defend his New England title against Chick Burns at the Arena Monday night, has announced that he would continue to make his home in Boston indefinitely, and that there was no possibility of a breach between him and Tony (Kid) Valenti, his manager

"I have been approached time after time by a group of New York sportsmen," said Fuller today, "and for the past few months, I have been considering going to New York. If I went, 'Kid' Valenti was to share in the profits. He was to go with me, for he has been with me since I was a bootblack in the North End. He was to continue as my manager."

Visiting boxers and managers have often declared that the people of Boston are the best judges of boxing and boxing shows in the country, as they are of practically every branch of athletics. This fact is proved by the heavy advance sale for next Monday night's show—a sale which promises to pack the Mechanics Arena to its last seat.

Fuller, Suggs, Johnny Sheppard, Jackie Donohue, Hambone Kelly, Rocky Stone, Joe Barlow and Tom Murphy—that group of boxers, each of whom is to appear on Monday night's card, will cost the club $15,000.

The preliminary boxers are to be lined up as follows: Jackie Donohue vs. Johnny Sheppard, eight rounds; Hambone Kelly vs. Johnny Dwyer, six rounds; Rocky Stone vs. Tom Murphy, six rounds; Joe Barlow vs. Granville Dow, six rounds; and another six rounder to be announced tomorrow.

Ukrainian Star Meets Shoffer

Mike Tayechin, Ukrainian light heavyweight wrestler, will make his first appearance at the Grand Opera House tomorrow night when he hooks up with Jake Shaffer the big German wrestler from South Boston.

Mike is just a youngster but he looks the part of a real wrestler and his one aim is to become as famous to his countryman Alexander Garkawienko. He will have a large following to encourage him on hand to witness his initial bout.

Sim Skorsky has been training hard in order to fit for his match with Andy Brown. This will be the first main bout for Sam and he is especially anxious to make good.

Jack Odell has been training hard for his match with Ivan Linder. He is anxious to prove that his showing last week with Stan Stasiak was more than a flash in the pan.

TIGERS TO SURPRISE FANS

Eddie Powers' Boston Team In Can.-Am. Loop Posseses Plenty of Class

By BILL GRIMES

Manager Eddie Powers is driving his Boston Tigers at top speed for the opening Canadian-American League game with Providence at the Boston Arena one week from Saturday night.

Although the Tigers boasted of but mediocre talent last season, Powers' managerial ability kept the team up in the fight. The Tigers have been strengthened and they will again bear watching.

Only five of last year's Tigers were retained by Manager Powers. George Redding and Bob Taylor, the first string wings, Capt. Ag Smith and Bill Cantant, on the one defense and Herb Rheaume, the goalie, are the only 1926 Tigers now under Boston contracts.

There is still some question as to whether or not Capt. Ag Smith will be able to devote much time to hockey this Winter.

There is no disputing the fact that the loss of "Dit" Clapper, now with the Bruins, will be felt by the Tigers. The Powersmen are fortified with a fine array of forwards but lack defense replacements.

DON'T WANT COUTU.

From some unknown source came the story that Billy Coutu was to join the Tigers. There is no truth in the rumor. Coutu is the type of player, whose actions on the ice fail to conform with the Tigers' style of play and his ability is not up to Powers standard. Manager Powers is short of defense men but fails to see where Coutu would solve the problem.

Eddie Burke, who came from the Canadian Soo, will be on the first line with Redding and Taylor. Burke should prove a sensation in the Canadian American League circles this season.

Burke is so far superior to Freddie Lutzen, who was sold to Hamilton, that before the season is many weeks old, the fans will be wondering how anyone ever sold them the idea that Litzen was a hockey player.

Burke is a stocky built, fast, shifty, centre. He made a most favorable impression during the first practice session and his work has been improving steadily.

The former Soo star is one of the smartest actors down in front of a defense the Boston fans have seen in years. The cleverness with which he can split a defense or pass behind the skates of a defense player is beautiful to watch. Burke is not long for the Canadian American League.

MACKAY JOINS TIGERS.

Manager Powers has two more forward lines, every member being a new comer to the Hub outfit. The second line is composed of Joe Contant, from Cornwall, a brother of the famous "Ponzi," at centre with Jack Frost and Sonny Manning on the wings.

Joe Contant has been suffering from a bruised leg for a couple of days, but will be able to make his debut against Providence.

Frost, Manning and Joe Contant are fast steppers and with a little seasoning will press the first line for honors. The third line will offer Wilson, centre; Proulx, at right wing, and Silver, on the left wing.

Reginald "Mickey" Mackay, purchased from Springfield and who played defense last year for the New York Rangers, will be in the Tiger outer defense.

Captain Ag Smith, Eli "Pooch" Contant and Herb Rheaume will be other defense men again Jean Tubus's Rhode Island Reds. Along with practicing with the Tigers Rheaume has been working out with the Bruins and he is right at mid season form, which will be bad news for Providence.

Captain Smith and Eli Contant gave a fine account of themselves last season and as "Ponzi" is already down to weight, he will thrill the crowds from the start. Injured of late in the season, as was the case a year ago.

Crowd Counts to 14 With Dave Barry Refereeing

Chicago, Nov. 2—When Referee Dave Barry came into the ring to handle the second bout at the coliseum his appearance was the signal for a terrific uproar, one part of the house cheering, the other booing the man who had figured so prominently in the Tunney-Dempsey fight.

During the first round of the bout, which was between Joe O'Malley and Sammy Sherman the crowd took up the counting "one-two" and so on up to fourteen.

FITTONS PLAY AT EVERETT

With the strongest team it can [illegible] schedule yet to be played, it [illegible] that Injuries will [illegible] Fittons [illegible] and [illegible] caused Coach Harris of the Fitton A. C. football team to shift the scene of their end of the season games from Hibbs High School field, where the St. Peter and Paul team is played on Saturday.

World War Memorial Park is in such poor shape for grid play that a continuance of competition on the Noddle Island Park would cripple the squad. The "Saints" have the strongest team ever to carry their colors this year. A victory over the St. Augustine eleven, who held the Fittons to a no-score tie, gives promise of a real grid battle.

The Fittons have "found themselves" if Sunday's game with Peabody is any criterion. The addition of Yarnell, Freeman and the return of "Red" Gunning to the line have given the Fitton team the necessary punch that was lacking early in the season.

Greb Most Courageous Man to Face Tunney

By GENE TUNNEY
(World's Heavyweight Champion)

In the prize ring a boxer often forms opinions of his opponent during a bout. He may secretly admire him for certain qualities—his gameness, courage, cleverness, sportmanship, etc.

In the five times I fought Harry Greb, I formed a feeling of genuine affection for him.

To my mind Greb was the most courageous, if not "the" most courageous fighter of the present generation in the ring. He would never admit defeat—always fighting until the last bell.

Several times when we would lock horns in the middle of the ring, my right for the opening. Quick as a flash—with a wonderful assortment of [illegible] would step in the weight of his body out of the way. The next [illegible] was a snake-like jab in the face.

Greb was a game fellow, always trying for it. It was in battle that his fighting heart was big and strong. He could take punishment gamely and deliver it lavishly.

I HAVE already described in another article my first fight with Greb as the worst battering I have ever received. In the five bouts I was stronger and knew my punch. Greb told me that each time we fought he found my boxing had improved 25 per cent.

In the fifth and last fight with Greb an incident occurred that I shall never forget. It was in St. Paul, Minnesota—I had won—and as we were entering the ring to Greb, "Well, Harry how'd you like it?" The tone was somewhat tantalizing. Harry the great and sure even in defeat, turned slowly to face Gibbons.

"Well I got mine tonight. But God help you when you get yours Tunney will knock you out!"

Perhaps as a show of indifference to Greb's prophecy Gibbons slipped in the very next day to fight me in New York the following June.

THE night of the fight with Gibbons at the Polo Grounds in New York Greb was taking part in [illegible] Sports Writers Club. Ed Sullivan, sporting editor of the Grand Rapids Herald, was announcer [illegible] and it was from him I learned of how Greb received the news of my boy over Gibbons.

There was no sign of difference in the Tuesday night New York and Grand Rapids ring [illegible] in his corner between rounds as well as on the telegram arrived.

Dickerson, who read it to the crowd of flight fans, said that Greb [illegible] sent [illegible] shouting greetings: "I knew it! I told Gibbons that fellow Tunney would knock him out!" And for some minutes he continued to [illegible] the Grand Rapids gathering [illegible] to "Tunney's gaudy as a fighter."

One of the saddest duties I have ever performed was that of pallbearer when Harry Greb, this splendid sportsman great fighter and good friend was laid away in the soil of his own home town—Pittsburgh.

Shaughnessy to Help HarvardHockey Team

Frank "Shag" Shaughnessy, all-round coach at McGill University, is to return to Harvard.

The redoubtable "Shag" taught Harvard football players the rudiments of the lateral passing game last Spring and now he returns as an assistant to Joe Stubbs, newly appointed coach of the hockey team.

"Shag" has not signed on the dotted line as yet. Harvard is still gunning for his services. The nearest thing to a definite decision came this week in Shaughnessy's letter when he announced that he would be in Cambridge Monday, Nov. 14.

It is interesting here to note that Arnold Horween, Crimson football coach, has asked Shaughnessy to spend the five days preceding the Yale game at Cambridge in the capacity of an assistant coach. From this it can be concluded that Harvard will throw plenty of laterals at the Eli pup, three weeks hence.

Returning to the original theme, hockey, the future signature of Shaughnessy as a hockey mentor, will mark the greatest boom in Harvard hockey in years. It has been a move long awaited and a better choice could not have been made.

"SHAG" KNOWS HIS STUFF.

Shaughnessy's McGill teams have been symbols of real Canadian hockey for the last fifteen years.

He has been regarded as the father of college hockey across the border and his coming to Cambridge means a likely catch for the Harvard athletic officials.

With Stubbs and Shaughnessy as hockey mentors, the new Crimson hockey regime is very sound. A better pair could not be secured. Both are drivers and call a spade a spade even when a Crimson hockey player enters into their hands. The Canadian is the older both in age and experience but Stubbs will carry on the old tradition of the Windsor system.

When Shaughnessy's contract is turned in, Harvard puck followers can feel assured that the Crimson will do away with that conservative spirit which has featured its work in the past. The old passing and covering game will still hold away, but body-checking will be featured as it never has been before.

WILL RETURN TO McGILL.

Shaughnessy still holds a contract to coach the McGill team in hockey but it is understood that arrangements are being made whereby he will be available for the new berth offered him by Harvard. He will return to the Canadian college next Fall, however, as coach of football.

Harvard officials are expected to deny the coming of the Canadian mentor. Harvard officials always deny these premature statements and hence their denial will have little weight. Shaughnessy has not signed as yet but the Crimson officials are expected to announce his appointment at the conclusion of the present football season.

PRES. CLAPP APPOINTS HIS HOCKEY REFEREES

The referee question, so vital to the success of professional hockey, will be well covered by the Canadian-American Professional Hockey League this season.

President Charles C. Clapp has appointed a staff of five men and he expects to add two more international figures within a few days. Of the local referees Frank Synnott, Bill Stewart and Ernie Doody will be retained. Georges Vaigett of Sherbrooke will also be on the list.

Bill Bell and George Melanson of Montreal are the new additions to the referee staff. Both have had considerable experience.

Michigan Alumni Praise Defeated Team

Chicago, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Michigan alumni arestathized with their Big Ten football team even if Ohio State is not. While Ohio supporters were demanding the removal of Coach John W. Wilce, the Michigan group was sending its praises to Coach Tad Wieman and his team, despite their defeat at Illinois last Saturday.

The Illinois team was congratulated by the "Ichigan alumni letter to Wieman, saying in part:

"You were all as great in defeat as you ever will be in victory. Tad, we can't win all the time. Yours for Michigan, win, lose or draw.

"University of Michigan Club of Chicago."

Meanwhile Ohio State alumni attended a secret meeting in Toledo, Ohio, and voted for the removal of Coach Wilce. The vote followed criticism because of the defeat of Ohio by Michigan and Northwestern.

Heeney-Sharkey Bout To Go on Air

New York, Nov. 2 (I.N.S.).—Broadcasting of the Jack Sharkey-Tom Heeney fight at Madison Square Garden, November 18, was assured today with the announcement that the State athletic commission had approved the application of Station WMCA, permitting Graham McNamee to handle the microphone.

ENGLISH GIRL MADE STAR ON FIRST TEST IN FILMS

London, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Madeline Carrol, without previous screen experience, walked into a film studio and was made a star on the spot. Miss Carrol took her Bachelor of Arts degree at Birmingham University and became a school mistress. Hated this work, turned to the stage and went on tour. Recently she walked into a studio for a film test.

The director knew before the test was completed he had found the girl for whom he had been looking. He kept her at the studio while a contract was prepared. She signed it then and there and is now playing the leading part in a film play.

FIGHT FILMS ILLEGAL, MAINE COURT RULES

Portland, Me. Nov. 2 (A.P.).—The possibility of any further local showing of the Tunney-Dempsey fight pictures appeared slim after a decision in Municipal Court today by Judge Max L. Pinansky that the Empire Amusement Company violated a State law prohibiting the photographic reproduction of a prize fight, Friday, when the pictures were shown in the Empire Theatres.

A fine of $100 and costs was imposed on the respondent company. Attorney Charles L. Donahue filed an appeal, automatically setting the case over for further consideration at the January term of the Superior Court.

Manager William E. Reeves announced that the pictures would not be shown further in either the Strand or Empire theatres.

What One Person Eats

IT has been reported that on an average each person eats in a year: 120 apples, 2 lbs. of pears, 3 lbs of plums, 1¼ lbs. of cherries, 1 lb. of currants (all kinds), 2 lbs of strawberries, ½ lb. of raspberries, 8½ lbs. of tomatoes and 1 lb. of cucumbers.

Mince Meat Is Now Right in Season

By MARTHA LEE.

YEARS ago when I owned a large and apartment houses were few and far between, it was practical for the housewife to make her own mince meat because we had every facility to accomplish it with some ease. At that time little was known of the product prepared commercially. Today after years of experimenting and [illegible] mince meat, either [illegible] or moist form has [illegible] that made in the home.

The housewife of the present day, in conclusion [illegible] prepared by the [illegible] ers is equally as delicious as the home-made. It requires no work on the part of the user and is ready for use when the family desires mince meat. Every grocer carries several brands of this high grade product, especially during the Fall and Winter months when it is most popular.

Moist mince meat is put up in glass jars and crocks and need only to be poured into the unbaked pastry, covered with the pastry top and baked for [illegible] minutes and it is ready to serve. It does not like home-made and contains the same high grade ingredients that enter the product made in the home. Only quantities of [illegible] fruits and governed by the [illegible] beef and suet are used. The same quality of fruits and meats are used in the prepared mince meat that is used in the home-made mince meat, either [illegible] or in a dried form.

Mincemeat has many uses other than pie for pie. With the holiday season almost upon us, the thought of fruit cake is of paramount importance. It is a well known fact that to prepare all the fruits desired for a fruit cake, and it is quite a relief to learn that a most delicious cake can be made with most or condensed mince meat. The flavor and keeping qualities of this cake are equally as good as of the regular fruit cake.

For this fruit cake, use two cups moist mincemeat. To this add one cup of dark molasses and cook together for about five minutes. Then add ½ cup butter. If you wish, you may use dripping. Set this mixture aside to cool.

In the meantime, sift 3 cups sifted flour, add one teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons baking powder.

Mix and sift several times. When the first mixture has cooled, stir in the dry ingredients and beat well. Have 2 two-pound cans lined with buttered paper. Bake in a 250 degree F. oven for 2 hours.

The fruit cake that is a little different, but equally delicious is made with the condensed mince meat. Cream ½ cup butter, break 2 eggs of the mincemeat in small bowl, using a fork. Measure and sift 3 cups sifted flour with 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon soda and one teaspoon salt. Rub this into the crumbled mincemeat.

Cream ½ cup butter. Add ½ cup sugar, 2 well beaten eggs, 1 cup dark molasses, ½ cup liquid (this may be fruit juice or milk.)

If you want a very delicious and different fruit cake, use 1 glass of jelly instead of ½ cup liquid. Beat this into the butter sugar mixture. Then add the dry ingredients mixed with the mince meat. Beat the mixture well, then turn into oblong pans, that have been lined with greased paper. Bake in a 250 or 275 degree F. oven for 2½ to 3 hours.

A little [illegible] meats may be added to either recipe should one desire a richer and more expensive cake. Either of these recipes will produce a very delicious fruit cake.

INEXPENSIVE FRUIT CAKE—Cream one-third cup of butter, add one cup light brown sugar, one-half cup of molasses, two well beaten eggs, one-half cup of hot coffee with three-fourths teaspoonful of soda dissolved in it, one and one-half cups of bread flour mixed with one teaspoonful of cinnamon, and one-half teaspoonful each of cloves and allspice. Mix a little of the measured flour with the following fruit and add last, three-fourths pound each of raisins and currants and one-fourth pound of citron cut small. Make two loaves in paper lining pans by four by three inches deep.

ENGLISH PLUM PUDDING—One and one-half cups stale bread crumbs, 1 cup suet, chopped fine, ½ cup sugar, 1 cup molasses, 3 eggs, ¼ cup flour, ½ pound seedless raisins, 2 ounces citron, cut fine, ½ cup currants, 2 cups sour apples, chopped fine, 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon, 1 teaspoon ground allspice, ½ teaspoon ground cloves, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup any fruit juice, juice of a lemon.

Soak raisins, citron, almonds and apples in fruit juices over night. Heat the rest of the ingredients. Turn into a buttered mold and steam 4 hours. Let in a well-floured apron and boil [illegible] minutes. Serve with [illegible] sauce.

WHITE GRAPE JUICE SAUCE—Three tablespoons white grape or one tablespoon cherry or [illegible] we substitute ½ cup sugar, grated [illegible] rind, 2 eggs.

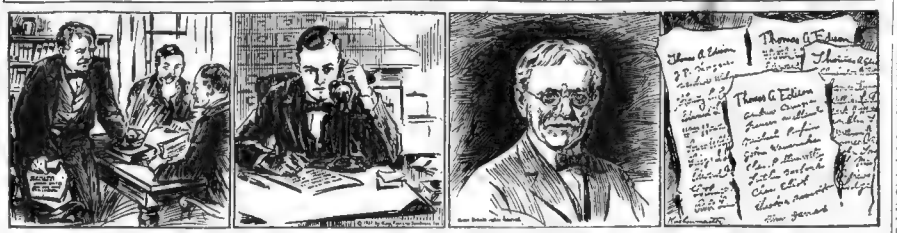
Beat all together in double boiler, place over fire and stir constantly until smooth and thick and serve at once. If sherry substitute is used, take two tablespoons and dissolve it in ¼ cup of hot water.

Faithfully yours,
MARTHA LEE.

LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

(Authorized by Mr. Edison)

Text by Arthur Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister



In discussions, Edison is in the habit of driving home in his points by vigorously pounding on a table or other convenient surface. On account of his deafness it is difficult to argue with him, but convinced that he is wrong he may say: "I see now that my position was absolutely rotten."

Charles and Theodore are actively engaged in their father's enterprises. Theodore assists Edison in the technical end of the work. Charles, shown in this picture, is president of the Edison Industries, comprising the phonograph, dictating machine, storage battery, primary battery plants and also the cement works.

William H. Meadowcroft has been associated with Edison for about 46 years. His loyalty to "the old man" has earned for him the respect and admiration of all those with whom he comes into contact. Mr. Meadowcroft is author of "The Boy's Life of Edison," and is president and historian of the Edison Pioneers.

In 1913 the Independent magazine held a referendum on the most useful American. The poll showed Edison in the lead. Among the comments accompanying the votes was this: "There is no one like him. He is the one-man-to-the-century inventor. Millions of people are his debtors."

Care of the Home Refrigerator

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.

YOUR food supplies, especially your meats, are now generally kept during their periods of sale by your grocer or butcher in cold storage that is to say at something like 40 degrees, even higher than 50 degrees. You then order as needed and get things fresh for immediate use. But sometimes you have to keep things over. You then use an ice box.

It is as important to store food carefully as to keep it protected from germs. In Winter a well-ventilated larder is probably satisfactory enough, but in Summer even the coolest larder is not always safe. Every household, particularly in the country, where deliveries are few and far between, needs some kind of ice chest, refrigerator or water cooled safe. A [illegible] does not entirely kill germs, it slows down the rate of growth and development, and consequently the rate at which food spoils.

A water-cooled safe is cheaper than a refrigerator, for it requires no appreciable and no costly insulation. The amount by which it reduces the temperature varies according to the moisture of the air, and in [illegible] ness urge, but is often quite sufficient to make the difference between spoiling and not spoiling. In one practical design the walls are made of white canvas with stripe of flannel fitted to their upper edges. This flannel dips into water contained in a small tank above the safe, and the water spreads over the canvas linings by capillary attraction. The evaporation of the water cools the safe by drawing heat from the air, the effect is greater on a good dry day than on a poor one. A water-cooled safe like this is infinitely more hygienic than a mere ice box.

Small ice boxes are as a rule not at all good larders.

They are generally unventilated [illegible] and often unsatisfactory and they waste ice. Moreover unless the ice compartment is kept [illegible] the cooling effect is insignificant. The better ventilation of the water-cooled safe allows food to keep noticeably fresh for a considerable time. Even milk will keep sweet and in good condition for a week or more if the temperature is never allowed to rise above 40 degrees F. But it is not advisable to make a habit of trying to keep it as long as this. No perishable food should be kept longer than necessary, even in a good refrigerator.

Correct Manners

Bread and Butter Letter.

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN:

1. My fiance and I were entertained for the week-end by his aunt and uncle whom I met for the first time, at their Summer home. I am of the opinion that it would be nice to write them a letter thanking them for their kind hospitality, but I want to be sure that this is correct. Of course, I was profuse in my messages of appreciation when I left, but I believe it would be nicer to write a letter, or do you suggest a gift? If the letter is correct, would you mind telling me how to word it?

2. When writing a personal letter, is it not correct to write the address, city and date at the top of the page, as I have written it here and eliminate the heading, or how should it be written?

A READER.

BY all means write the aunt, your hostess, a "bread-and-butter letter," thanking her for her hospitality. Your intuition concerning this is perfect, and you must obey it. She will be pleased to receive a letter of appreciation from you. Thank her for her hospitality, for her thoughtfulness in making charming plans for you, mention two or three of them especially, say how much you enjoyed meeting her friends, if there was time and opportunity to meet them, and ask her to tell the uncle too, how happy they made you by their invitation and how charmed you were to be with them.

I suggest that you send a gift also, with your letter. Did you think of something that they would enjoy while you were visiting them? some books, perhaps, or some records for the phonograph or for the player piano, or some item [illegible] your hostess?

2. Your head ing, with the items of street, address, city, State, and date, is perfectly written for your letter to me. What items you write on letter headings depends on the friend to whom you are writing. To a close friend you would not need to write so many items, but in a business or professional letter or a semi-social letter is necessary. I am glad to see that you agree with me that there should be no abbreviation. Also now, "open punctuation" is popular; that is, it is not necessary to have any marks of punctuation at the ends of the lines.

Frugality and Fashion seldom go together, so the Scotch tweed plaid-ed felt hats represent an extravagant sports whim that no economical Scotchwoman can be expected to approve. Small, turndown brims, and crowns with tiny pin tucks, are developed in many attractive style varieties. Solid-tone belting ribbon bands, with side bow, are the only trimming seen on these snappy little models.

The LIFE and LETTERS of WOODROW WILSON

BY RAY STANNARD BAKER.

Returned to Princeton as to Battleground After Vacation

Copyright, 1927, Doubleday, Page & Co.

NO opposition touched Wilson more vitally than that of Professor Hibben. To Wilson's intense, idealistic, sensitive nature such a friendship had something sacred about it. The two men had been for years almost inseparable. Wilson's many letters to Mr. and Mrs. Hibben give evidence of the depth of his friendship and his dependence upon them:

"Thank you with all my heart for your letter," he wrote to Mr. Hibben early in 1907. "It would be hard for me to tell you—I fear I never can by word of mouth—how your thoughtfulness and love touch and delight me. Your letter contained just the things I wanted to hear—just the items of news, and above all, just the assurances of being thought of and missed and loved."

Whenever a new committee was appointed, Hibben was sure to be on it. Wilson had asked him to serve in his place as president of the university while he was ill the year before. Stockton Axson says in a letter to the author

"Mr. Hibben was of the deliberate type, dependable. The Wilson family turned to him instinctively when there was need of a friend, in sickness or sudden death. He never failed them in any emergency. But between the two men there was this great difference: Mr. Wilson would act suddenly and then hold on like a bulldog, without compromise; Mr. Hibben would arrive at conclusions more slowly and it was his habit to listen to others, to compromise for half a loaf where the whole loaf could not be had."

Wilson, with his passionate devotion to principle, felt that Hibben, who knew the evils he was attacking as well as anyone, was arguing expediency: Hibben considered that he was only offering the "poor but well-intended offices of friendship" in warning Wilson of the cancers that confronted him. He said in a letter to Wilson on July 8, 1907.

"You know that I would never have sought to 'rob you of hope' as Mrs. Wilson characterized it, unless I had thought that I might at the same time forearm you by forewarning you of the gathering opposition. Were it not for my own convictions as to the dangers which attend this plan as regards the vital interests of Princeton, I would have gladly stood with you shoulder to shoulder against the world. Feeling as I do on that score the only possibility remaining as a friend was to show you as far as I saw it myself the existing conditions as regards the attitude of the trustees, faculty and alumni to your plan and the manner of its presentation to the Princeton community."

Both Van Dyke and Hibben visited Wilson at his Summer home in the Adirondacks, and there once more arguments. He could not at all convince Van Dyke, but since Van Dyke's opposition was based upon wholly different convictions and principles, Wilson had to quarrel with him. They remained friends. Wilson, when President of the United States, appointed Van Dyke Minister to Holland.

"I ventured to oppose President Wilson," Dr. Van Dyke has said, "without any personal animosity whatever, and our side won out. He and I never broke friendly relations during the conflict, and when it was decided neither of us needed to apologize, and I was able with sincere joy to give him my humble support in his political career, first as Governor of New Jersey, and second as President of the United States and the greatest friend of world peace that our age has seen."

If He Felt He Was Right He Defied Opposition

To argue with Wilson that his actions were incorrect, or that his remedy was inapplicable, was bootless to him, but to warn him that all the powers of the earth were opposing him, and that he should therefore pull down his flag, was to stiffen every fiber of his hardy Scotch spirit. If he was right, or felt that he was, what did opposition matter?

His Summer, indeed, was overburdened with work. He was desperately trying to revise his Columbia lectures for a book. He was having more and more to consider talk of his political availability. He was spending much time writing out a "Creed" of his political beliefs. He prepared an article for "The Atlantic Monthly" which he called "Political Constants," tracing the political history of America since 1787, and seeking the application of its lessons to the problems of the times. Well might he write to his friend Harry A. Garfield, who had just been elected President of Williams College:

"St. Huberts, Esser Co., N. Y.
"16 July, 1907.

"My Dear Garfield:

"I congratulate Williams with all my heart, and I know that Princeton's loss is irreparable. I do not know whether you realize how fortifying and what exceeding burdens you assume when you turn. I often long for my old quiet life as student and professor with an intensity that makes me very unhappy. But I am sure that you are answering a call of duty as I did, and I hope that, with your disposition, you will not suffer as much as I have suffered under the burden of painful tasks and misunderstandings — struggles with one's friends and a sort of isolation of responsibility like a rent of which I had not at all anticipated. I pray with deep affection that you may be blessed in every part of your work, and that some good friend may often give us a touch of one another's mind and heart. We must make diligent use of the year of comradeship that remains to us.

"Your affectionate friend,
"WOODROW WILSON."

Wilson returned to Princeton in September as to a battleground. His friends were meeting at Professor Ormond's house, or Dean Fine's office, for opponents with Dean West. On September 28 came the first great faculty meeting. It was held in Nassau Hall, in the faculty room arranged in much like the British House of Commons, with portraits of former presidents of Princeton upon the walls. Wilson presided—a kind of prime minister submitting his fate to a division of the House. He own "party" proposed the resolution; Daniels presented it, Hunt seconded:

"Be it resolved, that in the principle of the plan recently sanctioned by the board of trustees for the social co-ordination of the university, the faculty do concur, and that a committee of seven be appointed to co-operate with the president, the dean of the graduate school and a committee of the board already constituted to elaborate the plan in question."

The issue was fought out. Dr. Van Dyke countered with a speech and offered a substitute motion to this effect:

"That the board of trustees be asked that a committee be appointed from their number and the faculty who, with the president, shall investigate the present social condition of the university in conjunction with representatives of the alumni and students and consider the best method of curing evils which exist and of maintaining and promoting the unity, democracy and scholarly spirit of the undergraduates."

Here the issue was clearly joined. It was a moment of breathless intensity. No one knew quite where the battle would stand. Professor Hibben slowly rose — "you could hear a pin drop"—and seconded Van Dyke's motion. President Wilson turned pale.

"Do I understand that Professor Hibben seconds the motion?" the president asked slowly and, when he was answered neither of us needed to apologize, and I was able with sincere joy to give him my humble support in his political career, first as Governor of New Jersey, and second as President of the United States and the greatest friend of world peace that our age has seen."

If your hair won't keep the simplest wave for several days, there is probably too much acidity. A condition that causes hair to be stubbornly straight and stringy, and to lack all lustre. Acid scalp.

From the hour you check this excessive acidity your hair will act and appear very different. It will arrange easily in any style that becomes, for it will have lovely softness, and all the sheen all healthy hair normally has. Danderine will rebalance the acid and actually dissolve every particle of dandruff scale. Your hair won't need anything else to keep it fresh, wholesome and free from the least objectionable taint that is too often noticed in otherwise fastidious women.

Danderine sells for only thirty-five cents at any drugstore, and as only a few drops on comb or towel will do the work, a bottle lasts for weeks!

...ass. When mother asked me to look out for you, I knew that was what I had to do. And you're such a baby even though you think you know everything. You see, I'm doing this because—because mother would want me to."

Ann's voice had trembled the least bit. Georgie was standing, facing her, now, with expressions of pain in her eyes. Then all at once she weakened and gave up.

"I don't just know. I can't do anything when you bring in Mother like that. I think it's mean of you, Ann, I think it's mean of you."

But she was crying with Ann's arms around her.

"So you won't go on doing things like that, will you, Georgie?" Ann was asking softly.

"No," the word came through. "I'll do what you want me to, Ann. I'll do that much for you."

"Oh, Georgie, you're sweet. I don't blame any man for falling in love with you. I don't—let me fix Warren."

Bill Warren! As if he—don't be silly.

"He's wild about you," Ann protested loyally.

"Oh, he'll be wild about anyone," Georgie disclaimed. "He's all right. I'm going out with him tonight, you know."

"Yes, I know."

"What do you mean?"

"I happened to see him today, and he told me he was going to call for you."

"Oh!" Georgie's head settled down—she was beginning to be sorry—and when she lifted it again her eyes were shining. "I'll be ready and a desperate courage in his heart. He meant to propose tonight.

He told himself she would sit up until George came home. When she did it would be easy to read the news in her face. And then suddenly Ann felt unhappy.

She did not know what she wanted to happen—and she could not understand her uncertainty. She could not understand the way her own heart seemed to beat at the mere mention of Bill Warren.

'Becky'; Nan Is Greatly Distraught by Revelations

By RAYNER HELIG.

CHAPTER 44.

Scarlett watched her steadily as he said, "I have had the tenderest reminders in the world from—"

"You have? But I can't imagine about you honest."

"Have you forgotten the sweet letters you wrote me Nan?"

"No . . . but surely you're destroyed that awful frivolity."

He tapped his pocket "How could I? Your love letters. You do me an injustice, Nan. I carry them to me heart.

The woman, struggling against her agitation, paced back and forth, speaking at her shawl. "Why did you bring them here? It's so ugly."

"Why are you afraid to offer to [illegible] you're afraid of [illegible] answered [illegible] Nan, in fact concealed intended." He emphasized [illegible] the central idea of his entire educational philosophy.

"Any organization that has the idea of universal education as its foundation is antagonistic to the best training for citizenship in a democratic country," he said. "Fraternal organizations exist they must at least be subordinate and not of the very structure of the place."

During the entire Summer the board, and especially the quad committee, had been the center of hot controversy. Alumni organizations and other exponents of Wilson's plan felt that their only avenue of appeal was to the governing body. The same lines of cleavage began to develop there as in the faculty. The members were alarmed at the extent of the storm. Some were for flaming the battle straight through—men like David B. Jones and Dr. Jacobus. Others began to doubt, waver, or become active opponents. One of the most powerful of the latter was Moses Taylor Pyne, who had at first supported Wilson enthusiastically and had voted affirmatively in the June meeting.

The struggle was beginning now to attract much attention in the outside world. Newspapers and magazines showed deep interest in and in general, sympathy for Wilson's bold attempt to cure old and well-recognized evils. The "Review of Reviews" contained an article commending the quad system. It said in part:

"No more fundamental and courageous move in the direction of vitality and wholesomeness in academic life has been made in recent years."

Charles Francis Adams wrote to Woodrow Wilson on October 4:

"Your theory of 'quads' seems to me more nearly to meet existing college requirements than anything else which has been advanced."

The struggle was to come to a head in the October meeting of the board.

The defeat of Woodrow Wilson's "quad" plan for Princeton will be recorded in tomorrow's chapter. The opposition, headed by Dean West and Grover Cleveland, finally won the battle. Wilson's friendship for Mrs. Peck also will be described tomorrow.

AN exclusiveness born of inaccessibility and youth's eagerness for city life marks the island of St. Kilda, Scotland, whose very name breeds fiction and romance. Its population figure, by the way is on the decline. St. Kilda once boasted 100 residents.

But its exclusiveness is not of the brand that attracts the elite. And its inaccessibility is not of the variety that challenges man to conquer. Its small population is due to the younger generation preferring the excitement of Glasgow rather than primitive isolation.

The World's Greatest Authority

HAND NO. 208

South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

In the next issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above hand. Fill out your own chart and compare it with his method.

These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i.e., as though all four hands were exposed.

Yesterday's Hand as Played by Mr. Whitehead

Salient Points of the Bidding

West's bid of two diamonds was justified by his four honors. It was an overbid of one trick, despite the fact that if left in there Diamonds could have been made. North has but one assistant for hearts and, following such assist, South has two rebids if necessary.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 1. West leads a Spade in an endeavor to remove Dummy's Ace, realizing that was a possible establishment of Dummy's long Clubs. Declarer, however, passes the trick to his own King.

Trick 4. Declarer puts a Pique in the hope of establishing one trick in the suit for a possible discard.

Trick 8. Declarer puts Dummy in to establish the thirteenth Club.

Trick 12. Dummy's good Club gives Declarer a spade discard for game on the hand.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problems. Write to him care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope.

LET THE PUBLIC BE THE JUDGE

(Editorial by Mister Frisby)

STUDY the above picture. It reveals a condition that has become all too common at our public beaches. These young folaks say, "It's all in fun!" Is it fun to run about half clothed, catching sniffles, head cold and even pneumonia? It is high time that our public officials stop winking at such antics, now that Winter is coming on. Write to your Congressman—or, better still, send 25 cents for our illustrated booklet, "Paris After Midnight."

—D. Ras.

P. S.—Don't send any more brass boilers, as they will simply be returned. D.

Grandmother Knew

there was nothing so good for congestion and colds as mustard. But the old-fashioned mustard plaster burned and blistered.

Musterole gives the relief and help that mustard plasters save, without the plaster and without the blister. It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Gently rub it in. See how quickly the pain disappears. Try Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel — were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 20 years of study.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes sold yearly. 15c, 30c, 60c. All Druggists.

THE WITTY SAYINGS OF MEDBURY

ACCORDING to the Book of Etiquette there are over ten million people in this country who are suffering from the lack of table manners. One fellow has been eating with his knife for thirty years and never drawn blood.

HE attended a formal dinner party the other night and everybody thought he was trying to take his own tonsils out.

HE'S clever at the table. He can even pick soup up in his fingers.

HE drinks consomme in any key.

CORN on the cob is his favorite musical instrument.

BUT he always likes to follow it with watermelon so he can get his ears clean.

HE never has any trouble with spaghetti. He usually ties it to his fork.

The Best Cough Syrup Is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have best cough medicine you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this famous home-made cough syrup. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. It tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, harsh or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, which has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Keeping the System So Clean There Are No Body Odors

A lot of people who never have to take a laxative eat a candy cascaret now and then. Do you know why?

They have found that cascara sweetens the whole system—brings an immaculacy of person that means everything. It prevents bodily chemistry from ever making one unconsciously offensive to others. And what a perfect regulator of the bowels!

Salts affect the lining of the bowels. Mineral oils leave a coating that the blood must carry off through the pores. How much better to cascarize the system, and cause the bowels to expel everything by normal muscular contraction! To say nothing of the cleaner, sweeter condition that last for days—a wholesome condition that makes the use of deodorants quite unnecessary in January or July! Men and women whose years have brought on sluggishness often find that a cascaret only once a week is all the tonic they needed.

Cascara is splendid for children, too, and they love the taste of this candy laxative which every druggeree has for 10c and 25c.

IT'S GLORIOUS to have no more dread of faulty elimination. And to know there can be no offense to perspiration, and no need to check it. I would never be without the candy laxative—

CASCARETS

BY JOHN P. MEDBURY

HE has corns on the sides of his mouth from drinking out of saucers.

BUT his wife doesn't care. It keeps him from biting the gold off her coffee cups.

BLUEBERRY pie never stains his lips. He always puts paint remover in the finger bowls.

HE usually wears gloves when they have baked potatoes for dinner.

HIS hands were all scratched the other night from eating artichokes.

HIS fencing lessons have come in very useful at the table. He can spear a piece of bread from any angle.

HE tosses a mean fork.

PEAS don't bother him, either. He sprinkles them on fly paper.

THEN when he's ready for them he takes them off with a pair of pliers.

HE gave a supper the other evening and served cheese in individual mouse traps.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS—

By HELEN ROWLAND.

O YE damsels of Babylon, ye wearers of artificial pearls and artificial flowers! Ye lovers of jazz and seekers of joy! How long will ye continue to waste your substance upon imitation furs and your hearts upon imitation love and your days upon imitation men?

How long will ye continue to accept seconds and light-weights; and to mistake petting for love and yawnings for sentiment?

For verily, a single jewel exceedeth a carload of "junk," and an whole yard of honest cloth is more to be desired than a basketful of "scraps." So is one day in the company of an INTERESTING man more delight to the spirit than a thousand and one nights in the company of boors and sheiks and Charleston-footers!

Go to. Better an hour of real romance and beautiful memories thereof than a cycle of petting, without thrill or meaning or rapture!

Better a single wooer, who putteth art into his work and his soul into his kisses, than a series of artisans and amorists who "neck" with the finesse of football players and kiss as casually as billiard balls.

Better a glorified friendship covered with star-dust than a cheap amourette or a summer "pash" that endeth in boredom and dead sea fruit!

Alas, my Daughters, wherefore have ye lost your heads and your vision, that ye SEE not what wasters and philanthropists and self-deceivers ye have become?

For in the love-market every man seeketh a "bargain." But else that holdeth out for her PRICE shall receive it.

And the price of love—is LOVE!

Wherefore then shalt thou be an altruist, giving time and youth and dreams and affection in return for careless kisses not worth a jewel from the Maison Woolworth? Be yourselves!

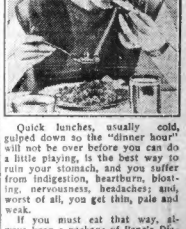
MANY GET BACK YOUNG APPETITE



Quick lunches, usually cold, gulped down so the "dinner hour" will not be over before you can do a little playing, is the best way to ruin your stomach, and you suffer from indigestion, heartburn, bloating, nervousness, headaches; and, worst of all, you get thin, pale and weak.

If you must eat that way, always keep a package of Pape's Diapepsin handy so you can chew one of the pleasant-tasting tablets after your meals. It keeps the food sweet so your stomach can digest it.

Follow the experience of thousands who again have a young appetite. All druggists recommend and guarantee Pape's Diapepsin to relieve indigestion and sweeten the stomach in 5 minutes.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON: 1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND: 1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

Be Ready, Young Man

A Good Time Coming

Those who have served with him in the Legislature will not be surprised to learn that Dr. Ezra W. Clark, of Brockton, enters upon his 86th year as eager and optimistic as if the show were just beginning.

There is no thought in the mind of this fine old legislator and physician that civilization is entering upon its final chapter; to the contrary:

"I am not naturally envious. I do not begrudge Ford, Morgan and Rockefeller their millions, but I almost envy the young man just entering upon active life at the dawn of the grandest period in all the history of the world in which to be living, acting and achieving."

Does this prospect spread itself before all young men, without distinction, simply because they happen to be here? No, only before the fit, only before those who make ready:

"The rich rewards of the new age will be reserved for those who fit themselves mentally, morally and physically to meet the demands of exacting conditions. The young man who begins to dabble with alcoholic liquors or who gives much of his time to self-indulgence stands 9 chances out of 10 to fall by the wayside."

Sunshine, encouragement and a LITTLE good advice in two brief paragraphs. But will the advice be heeded? "From your experience," the reporters asked Mr. Edison on his birthday, "what advice would you give to the youth of today?" "Youth," replied the great inventor, "does not take advice."

We Like Oranges

Boston One of America's Four Big Markets

Although we knew Boston was a good market for oranges we confess our surprise at the facts revealed by the Bureau of Railway Economics.

Of the 42,290 carloads of oranges unloaded in the year which ended with September, 1926, at 36 principal markets, the cities of New York, Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia received 23,016 carloads, or 54.5 per cent.

The success of the orange grower is a story of meritorious product, plus co-operative marketing, plus intelligent publicity.

Similar methods, already undertaken to some extent, will bring corresponding success to the New England apple-grower.

Movies in Papua

Moving Pictures Are Civilization's Missionaries

DUSKY LADIES OF PAPUA WATCH THEIR WHITE HOLLYWOOD SISTERS

On the island of Papua moving pictures are shown to the natives once a month, and that ONCE, a great day, is described by the natives in their queer English as "this one feller night make 'em picture."

The dusky beauties of Papua, and other dark ladies and many gentlemen from neighboring islands, come to see the white men and women in the pictures.

They dress themselves with great care, cover their bodies with fresh cocoanut oil, put wooden combs in their hair, naturally and artificially frizzled. Then they sit enchanted before the screen while fair Talmadge coughs pathetically as Camille or fierce Fairbanks jumps down thirty feet and slays the pirate.

The interesting thing is that as the pictures are shown the natives gradually incline to change their costumes. They become dissatisfied with cocoanut oil as a dress. Little by little, "for better, for worse," our moving pictures carry our civilisation and dress ideas into the distant parts of the earth.

The desert sheik now wears baggy pantaloons and a "double-breasted jacket with the nifty slanting pockets."

Papua cannot afford Hollywood styles yet. But Papua can ADMIRE them, and little by little Papua will get them.

One great service that American moving pictures render to this country—they create a demand FOR AMERICAN GOODS.

That is why France, England, Germany and other countries, VERY INTELLIGENTLY, are trying their best to suppress American pictures and replace them with home-made pictures.

editor,

can, N As you look at a picture to your local theatre you are Boston. rested to know that it is being shown all over the world, except it is the missionary of our civilisation, and the high class ance agent for our goods.

SALES TAX WOULD AID BUSINESS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

FEW people realize the enormous size of the government payroll and how many people are employed not in producing but in taking money from those who have produced.

The prosperity of a country, its real strength, depends upon its producers. If these should stop their work the country would slump.

According to a recent announcement, the Internal Revenue Bureau stated that for the year ending June 30 there had been $1,308,000,000 income tax collected from corporations. This is unprecedented and exceeds all previous records.

The year before the collections amounted to $213,000,000 less.

Do we realize what this means?

It means that the government takes 13 per cent. of the corporations' net income for the first half of the year and 13 1-3 per cent. for the second. That is to say, a corporation must give up to the government 13⅓ per cent. of its profits before it begins to pay its shareholders. If it pays its shareholders 6 per cent., that means it has to earn 19½ per cent. of its invested capital.

A tax is undoubtedly a restraint to any enterprise. Nobody objects to taxing tobacco, because tobacco is a luxury. No man has to use it and those who enjoy this form of diversion are perfectly willing to pay for it. So with the tax on amusements. When we read, therefore, of an increase of $5,503,000 in the tobacco manufacturers' tax we do not especially object.

But these corporations who are taxed 13½ per cent. are the backbone of the country's prosperity. They employ thousands of laborers and they pay dividends to thousands of shareholders. The government by this income tax is crippling them and by so doing it is cutting its own throat, for these corporations are the geese that lay the golden eggs for us.

To go into business nowadays a man must count on making over 13 per cent. for the government before he starts making any money for himself. Some of the corporations are so prosperous, of course, that they can do this, but thousands of them are put out of business by the government. That is, the government says that a man shall not engage in any business unless he can make a profit of over 13½ per cent.

Many more would engage in lucrative enterprises were it not for this handicap.

A reasonable sales tax would obviate all this difficulty and remove from the government's employ an army of spies and sycophants that now infest it. The sales tax has been tried and it is not burdensome upon any one. It lies with equal weight upon all, and surely all of us enjoy the blessings and protection of the government and we should be willing to pay for it.

Most of these people who insist upon the government taxing the corporations are people that do not make much themselves and that cannot be taxed.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

EDNA just steamed into my office to tell me about her insult.

Why, it's Absolutely Outrageous the way a decent girl is treated on the street nowadays. Lookit what happened this morning. Edna—so she says—was walking along the street acting like a Perfect Lady. And all of a sudden, two Horrible Young Men began to grin at her, and one of them actually WHISTLED! Whereupon Edna turned and gave them a Withering Look. Didn't that stop them? Ixe, it did not. They burst into loud HA-HA'S instead and Edna came right away from there on high, spitting fire with every step.

What did I think of it?

Wasn't it Simply Frightful the way Nice Girls were insulted by lamp-post loafers? What were cops for if they didn't protect a young girl from outrages like that? Etc., etc., etc.!!!

While she talked I looked Edna over. This was what I saw:

A very pretty girl. Eyelashes heavy with mascara, lids suggestively shadowed with purple. Cheeks like the sunny side of two tomatoes. Mouth made up after our best Vampire Pattern.

That is what I saw above Edna's neck. And I kept right on seeing most of Edna, clear down to her heels. Her fresh colored georgette dress needed traffic signs to show where it was. Beneath it, a charming lace do-funny did its stuff! In case you didn't know it was there, it had a lot of rosebuds and ribbons stuck on to put you wise.

Beneath the blouse there were about eight inches of skirt. As a skirt it was a good necklace. Beneath that, two chiffon stockings, also flesh colored. When Edna walked you could see her knees. When she sat, you were treated to two inches more of Edna's delightful limbs.

And Edna wonders why she is insulted.

Now, I'm strong for modern fashions. I think they're the healthiest, most sensible and attractive clothes that women have ever worn. I like skirts short and blouses breezy. But one can attain shortness and breeziness without putting the whole subdivision on the market. Fresh air is a wonderful thing—BUT YOU CAN GET A LUNG FULL WITHOUT GIVING THE WHOLE WORLD AN EYEFULL.

I rest my case.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

I USED to be that land and sea sufficed for man's domain; though far he went, he was content to take a boat, a train. The boundaries of distant seas were wide enough for all, and no man thought earth would be brought to seem too cramped, too small. With other days come other ways, we leave the outworn past, still more and more our visions soar and now we fly, at last! Not those brave few who in the blue of airy regions rise, who launch frail wings, gay, shining things, upon the trackless skies. But you and I, we rise, we fly, we scorn earth's laggard pace; we live, we move with those well-loved who, dauntless, lead the pace! Old, young, great, small are fliers all and in our dreams we fly across the sky till stars draw nigh and earth falls far below!

Happiness lies in the consciousness we have of it, and by no means in the way the future keeps its promises. —Seed.

THE CALENDAR AND THE SEASONS

By GARRETT P. SERVISS.
Noted Astronomer and Writer On Scientific Subjects of Popular Interest.

"Please inform me if there is any natural phenomenon that justifies the present placing of our months. I have often wondered why January did not begin where December 21 now is. A. M."

ONLY very strong reasons can justify a change in the accepted calendar. Too many interests and conveniences are intimately associated with the order in which the months and seasons are arranged to permit a merely sentimental alteration.

It is true that our arrangement of the seasons is out of accord with the most natural division of the year, which is marked by the two equinoxes and the two solstices, occurring respectively March 20 and September 23, and June 21 and December 22, (approximately). At the equinoxes the relative length of day and night interchanges between the Northern and Southern hemispheres; at the solstices the sun reverses its motion in declination, the days shortening in one hemisphere and simultaneously lengthening in the other.

It is a pity that Julius Caesar was induced by an Alexandrian Greek astronomer to change the date of the beginning of the Roman year from March to January. In the northern hemisphere, which is the one that has by far the greatest area of land and has always had, and no doubt always will have, the greatest population, the spring equinox would seem to be the most natural point of beginning for the year, because it marks substantially the moment of the reawakening of animated nature. Then the middle of the year would fall at the Autumn equinox, when nature's decline begins in the same hemisphere. The whitening locks of the aging year would appear as the snows of late December, and the end would come with poetic and religious harmony, in the brightening hope and promise of the new year.

This, it seems to me, would be an ideal arrangement. But, unfortunately, the ideal is not always recognized even when possessed, as is proved by the fact that substantially this same arrangement prevailed in Rome before Caesar's time, and also in England until so late as 1752.
